The only thing I can think of is another crime or wrong would be the traffic citations, and it seemed to me those are so minor that it would not be a good idea, then, if the judge said, "You have heard evidence of Mr. Nissen's other crimes." I don't see how that helps you. So I'd be inclined to leave that out and just not have a I probably will be looking more to the 404(b). defendant more on anything else. What's your thoughts, Mr. Gleria? It seemed to me it didn't help you; it kind of hurt you.

 $$\operatorname{MR}.$$ GLERIA: I agree, especially after the hearing.

THE COURT: After the hearing.

MR. GLERIA: Yes, I'm in agreement.

THE COURT: All right. Is that all right with you, Mr. Mysliwiec?

MR. MYSLIWIEC: Yes, Your Honor. I defer to what the defendant wants on that.

1 THE COURT: It's kind of like a limiting 2 instruction, and you're entitled to it. But if you don't want it -- a lot of times defendants don't want 3 4 it and we don't give it. 5 MR. MYSLIWIEC: Yeah, I wouldn't even use the word "crime." It's really an infraction or -- in 6 7 New York we have things that are in penal law but not 8 crimes. I know New Mexico is a little different. 9 But I agree. It draws unnecessary attention to a thing that's mostly res gestae mostly, "You heard 10 this thing happened and that's what started the 11 story." But that doesn't need to be a jury 12 13 instruction. 14 (A discussion was held off the record.) 15 THE COURT: I'm trying to think if there is anything else. I can't think of anything. 16 I think 17 Ms. Bevel handed you out something. I think she's given it to you and I don't have it, something to do 18 19 with the jury, a seating chart, or what --20 MR. MYSLIWIEC: Yes, we have seating 21 charts. 22 THE COURT: So I guess they randomly pulled 23 the names, and you now have the seating chart. 24 many are on there?

SANTA FE OFFICE 119 East Marcy, Suite 110 Santa Fe, NM 87501 (505) 989-4949 FAX (505) 820-6349

MR. MYSLIWIEC: The seating chart goes up to 49. So we had some people that didn't show up, which I'm sure is fine, but it looks like 49 showed up.

THE COURT: That still seems to me like a lot of people to work with in here. What would y'all think if I left 3 down in the jury room and just had 46 in here? Because I just don't think we're going to need all those people for such a short trial. It doesn't have -- what do you think?

MR. MYSLIWIEC: Well, the defense gets ten strikes, we get six, and we need 14 jurors. So...

THE COURT: You get 14 peremptory -- or 16 peremptory, we're going to seat 14, so that's 30. You get two extra on the alternatives, so that gets you up to 32. And then 33 -- I had one peremptory challenge last week whenever I did the trial. So I think you need at least 33, and I was going to seat 46 in here. Leave three. If something happens, we'll bring them up. But I bet you we can get it done, and just having those extra people is just going to slow things down. What do you think?

MR. MYSLIWIEC: So if we have to call on the extra three, we would have to basically start jury selection over, but it seems like we have a buffer of 13 or so that could be struck for cause but

THE COURT: All right.

MR. MYSLIWIEC: On the next page for the 1 first element of 875(c), it doesn't need to be 2 restricted to police, because 875(c) doesn't restrict 3 the prohibition against interstate threats to any 4 specific profession. One of our two, you know, 5 quote, victims is a police officer. The other, 6 Barbara Beuzekom, is -- I guess I would call her a 7 civilian employee of the New Mexico State Police. 8 There are some statutes where the official status of 9 the victim of the threat is important, like section 10 115 of Title 18. But 875(c) is not such a section. 11 I think we're overcomplicating our lives by putting 12 the word "police" in there. I'd just say: 13 "Mr. Nissen knowingly transmitted a communication 14 containing a threat to injure the person of another," 15 which I think is what the pattern jury instruction 16 17 says. THE COURT: We had talked about this 18 19 earlier and you had said put in police.

MR. MYSLIWIEC: That was before I saw the pattern instruction. So 875(c) doesn't have a pattern instruction in the original 2011 jury instructions. It was added, I think, in the 2018 version, and Mr. Mkhitarian was kind enough to email that to me. But when I made that suggestion I was

5	Mr. Gleria?
6	MR. MKHITARIAN: Yes, Your Honor, I
7	apologize. While I reviewed and I agree that that
8	is the language from the 2018 version. And I don't
9	think there is any instruction or anything that says,
10	"Insert person's name here." So I would agree with

13	THE COURT: Do you have any other changes,
14	Mr. Mysliwiec?
15	MR. MYSLIWIEC: No, sir. Those are my only
16	two notes.
17	THE COURT: Mr. Mkhitarian, did you have
18	anything on the preliminary instruction?
19	MR. MKHITARIAN: No, Your Honor.
20	THE COURT: All right. So I'm going to
21	give those to Ms. Desai and ask her to make those
22	changes, and she'll give you another one. Why don't
23	we file those as well. We probably ought to file the

You said you had another issue,

Mr. Mysliwiec? 1 That was it, sir. MR. MYSLIWIEC: 2 Mr. Uballez' first name being Alex, and then that 3 first element of 875(c). That's all I have. 4 I've got a brother-in-law named 5 THE COURT: Max, so I must have had Max on my mind. 6 MR. MYSLIWIEC: Max is one of his names. 7 Oh, the next thing is, we're going to 8 strike Task Force Officer Wesley Cox from our witness 9 list, which will make him immune to the rule of 10 sequestration. He'll be able to stay in the pews and 11 go back and grab witnesses and help coordinate. 12 As I mentioned before, Peter Ubbelohde of 13 the FBI is our case agent, so he's immune to the rule 14 for that reason and sits at the table with us. 15 Task Force Officer Cox is just going to be 16 out in the audience like a regular person. But we're 17 taking him off our witness list so that he will be 18 able to stay in the courtroom, hear other witnesses' 19 testimony, fetch other witnesses, fetch exhibits, 20 things like that. 21 THE COURT: You don't have any need to call 22 Officer Cox, do you, Mr. Gleria? 23 MR. GLERIA: No, Your Honor. 24 THE COURT: All right. So he can remain in the courtroom.

I may have asked this at the pretrial hearing. Did anybody have any issues with each other's voir dire? Mr. Mysliwiec, with the defendant?

MR. MYSLIWIEC: So his very last question puts the jury in the position of the defendant, which one is not supposed to do. I mean, as I recall the rule, the defense is not supposed to ask the jury to put themselves in the position of the defendant. The Government is not supposed to ask the jury to put themselves in the position of the victim. But that's really the only thing I saw that I wasn't 100% comfortable with. I don't expect it will be a big scandal, but that's all I noticed.

THE COURT: Well, I hear that asked all the time. It's kind of borderline. But I'll let defendant ask it if they want. It may pick up something that we need to discuss, so you just never know. They may look at him and don't like his haircut or not wearing a jacket. You just never know. So I'll kind of give the defendant the leeway to ask that question if they want it.

Is that all you have on their voir dire, Mr. Mysliwiec?

reference this please.

MR. MYSLIWIEC: Yes, thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Mr. Gleria, Mr. Mkhitarian, do you have any issues with the Government's --

> No, I don't, Your Honor. MR. GLERIA:

THE COURT: Well, do y'all have any issues? Did you have any other issues, Mr. Mysliwiec, we need to address before we bring the jury in?

MR. MYSLIWIEC: It doesn't need to be now. I did want to bring in some more specifics about the testimony that I would be able to adduce about the revolver if I were able to ask about that. Specifically, when I was in preparation with Officer Cash, he is the one who interviewed Mr. Nissen, and he has a relationship with Mr. Nissen. They've talked many times, and he asked Mr. Nissen essentially, "Do you still carry that revolver?" Mr. Nissen said something to the effect of, "Yes, I carry it regularly or I always carry it."

And Mr. Nissen -- that was the interview in which Mr. Nissen specified that it was a Smith and Wesson and specified that he carried it to protect himself from rogue state cops. And from Mr. Cash's conversations with Mr. Nissen, Mr. Cash believes that by the phrase "rogue state cops" Mr. Nissen means police officers who, in Mr. Nissen's view, violate

Mr. Nissen's rights. And Mr. Cash's view is that Mr. Nissen would agree with that definition.

The United States continues to take the position that when it goes to Mr. Nissen's subjective intent to convey a true threat in that third phone call on November 2, 2018, when he said, "If a police officer violates my rights again, I'm going to pull out my revolver," that it's very relevant that he possessed a revolver to which he was likely referring when he said that. And like I said before, I don't think the ownership of a revolver, especially in New Mexico, is itself prejudicial. It's not illegal. We're not claiming that it's illegal. We talked about the 404(b) instruction being not particularly appropriate in this circumstance. We don't claim it's wrongful to possess the revolver. We just think it's important that the jury know that at the moment he threatened to pull out his revolver, he did indeed possess one.

So if that's a request to reconsider, however the Court wants to take that, that's the last thing I have.

THE COURT: Okay. Any thoughts on that, Mr. Gleria, Mr. Mkhitarian?

MR. GLERIA: I agree with the previous rulings of the Court regarding the parameters of the questioning, and I object to that proposed line of questioning as extrinsic evidence that is not relevant. And that's my position.

THE COURT: Well, I'll give it some thought, but I'm inclined -- I worked on this over the weekend. I still need to finish up the opinion, just a few more pages I need to edit, and I just ran out of time and started working on jury instructions, just in case this case moves quickly, which it might. So I wanted to get you a set of those, so I kind of stopped working on the opinion and went back to the other. But I'll take a look at it.

But right at the moment, let's keep the actual existence of the revolver out. It's going to come in to some degree in the telephone calls, but keep out the other evidence, and I'll continue to think about it.

All right. Anything else, Mr. Mysliwiec -- MR. MYSLIWIEC: No, sir.

THE COURT: -- before we bring the jury in.
Mr. Mkhitarian? Mr. Gleria?

MR. MKHITARIAN: There is only one issue to one of the jurors. I recognize one of the names as somebody whose son or brother I might have

2	that on my juror questionnaire. So that's the only
3	thing I have.
4	THE COURT: Any thoughts on that,
5	Mr. Mysliwiec?
6	MR. MYSLIWIEC: Part of the Court's regular
7	questioning is: "Do you recognize any of these
8	folks?" If it is Mr. Mkhitarian, maybe she
9	recognizes him. And I think Mr. Mkhitarian is a fine
10	attorney. So if what she says is, "Yes, he

12	scandalous or untrue. So I think we just see how it
13	lies as we go through the regular process.
14	THE COURT: Is that all right with you,
15	Mr. Mkhitarian?
16	MR. MKHITARIAN: That's all right. Just
17	full disclosure to the Court.
18	THE COURT: I appreciate it.
19	Ms. Bevel, I think we agreed why don't
20	we just leave those bottom three.
21	THE CLERK: I told them, and Judge, I just

25	THE COURT: Anything else, Mr. Mkhitarian,

Mr. Gleria? 1 MR. GLERIA: No, Your Honor. 2 THE COURT: All right. They're going to 3 4 bring the jurors up. They're on their bathroom If y'all want to go in there and use the jury 5 break. room, there are a couple of toilets in there, and 6 then we'll get them up here and we'll get ready. 7 So we'll go in recess for a few minutes 8 here while we're getting the jury up here. 9 (The Court stood in recess.) 10 (Voir dire was conducted and the jury was 11 12 selected.) THE COURT: The lady that's got to breast 13 pump for her baby made the jury. So would it be all 14 right with y'all -- I think the Government is taking 15 one of the witness rooms out front. Could I have the 16 other one? Do you need it, Mr. Gleria? 17 MR. GLERIA: The witness room? 18 THE COURT: Yeah, the witness room out 19 front, the two conference rooms. 20 MR. GLERIA: No. 21 I'm going to mark one of those THE COURT: 22 Do not enter." So if you all do not 23 as, "Private. enter that one, that's where she'll do it. 24 okay right at the moment, but --25

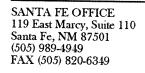

1	MR. MYSLIWIEC: All right. So the one
2	marked "Private" we're not going to use. Okay. The
3	agents know.
4	THE COURT: And then I've got one juror
5	that's looking for eyeglasses, so we're waiting for
6	her to come up. She's down in the jury assembly room
7	looking for her glasses. But as soon as I get her up
8	there, we'll get started.
9	Are there any issues we need to discuss
10	before we bring the jury in?
11	MR. MYSLIWIEC: So I was looking at the
12	final instructions.
13	THE COURT: Yes.
14	MR. MYSLIWIEC: And I just have the same
15	request that we change "police" back to the pattern.
16	THE COURT: Ms. Desai, would you change
17	on the elements, take out "police" and put whatever I
18	put into the preliminary instruction.
19	MR. MYSLIWIEC: And that's all I could
20	notice.
21	THE COURT: I'm going to put in I didn't
22	do it last night. I'm going to put in an instruction
23	on knowingly, since that's one of the elements. So
24	I'll put in the first sentence of the pattern
25	instruction. The rest of it deals with the deliberate ignorance. So I'll take all that out. 1 don't think this case has anything to do with 2 deliberate ignorance. So I will just have the first 3 sentence of that pattern instruction. I will insert 4 it behind the elements charge and before the "on or 5 about" charge. 6 So we've got all the jurors, all 14 of 7 them? 8 THE CLERK: Yes, Your Honor. 9 THE COURT: Anything else we need to 10 Mr. Mysliwiec? discuss? 11 MR. MYSLIWIEC: No, sir. 12 THE COURT: How about you, Mr. Gleria? 13 MR. GLERIA: No, Your Honor. 14 THE COURT: It's up to y'all. Do y'all 15 want to stand for the jury, or just go back to 16 regular protocol, given that we don't have any jurors --MR. GLERIA: Leave it to you, Judge. MR. MYSLIWIEC: It's y'all's call as long as Mr. Nissen doesn't mind. 21 THE COURT: Well, he can stand too, I 22 think. He's okay. 23 MR. GLERIA: The chains might jangle. THE COURT: Well, I think they got it

1	pretty tight. Mr. Nissen, do you mind standing and
2	let's listen to you?
3	THE DEFENDANT: I think we should just stay
4	the way it's been.
5	THE COURT: If it's all right with y'all,
6	I'll just say, "Stand," for the audience and for my
7	clerks, and y'all don't stand.
8	MR. MYSLIWIEC: Yes, sir. Correct.
9	THE COURT: Is that okay? Is that all
10	right with you, Mr. Nissen, Mr. Gleria?
11	THE DEFENDANT: Yes.
12	MR. GLERIA: Yes, sir.
13	THE CLERK: They're lining up, Judge, and
14	I've already passed out the note pads.
15	THE COURT: Okay. Oh, does anybody want to
16	invoke the rule?
17	MR. GLERIA: Yes, I'll invoke the rule.
18	THE COURT: So I'll instruct the jury on
19	the rule when they come in. I may ask on the record,
20	"Is it invoked"
21	MR. GLERIA: Yes, sir.
22	THE COURT: and you can say it is. Then
23	I'll give them the rule.
24	So on instruction number 6, the fifth line,
25	it had comma after "witnesses." What it has in the tenth instruction is that says "including the defendant." So it assumes that the defendant is testifying. Since it doesn't seem that's the way it's going, I took that clause out. But the comma didn't come out, so I'm going to take the comma out unless anybody has any objection to it.

MR. GLERIA: No, Your Honor.

MR. MYSLIWIEC: No, sir, thank you.

(The jury entered the courtroom.)

THE COURT: All right. Does either side wish to have the rule invoked in this case?

Mr. Mysliwiec? Mr. Gleria.

MR. GLERIA: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. It is a rule of law -- the rule has been invoked in this case, and it's a rule of law that witnesses may be excluded from the courtroom so that they cannot hear the testimony of other witnesses. This rule does not apply to parties or expert witnesses. The rule of exclusion has been invoked in this case, and all witnesses to whom the rule applies will be required to remain outside of the courtroom until they are called to testify. Witnesses excluded from the courtroom should not discuss with other witnesses their testimony before they or the other witnesses

THE COURT: Mr. Uballez.

MR. UBALLEZ: Counsel, ladies and gentlemen, good afternoon. Thanks for hanging with us. We will present hopefully a short case over the course of today and tomorrow that's going to involve the incidents -- two incidents that occurred or a series of incidents that occurred in November of 2018, last year.

They began November 2 of 2018 where New Mexico State Police Officer Jason Burd was doing his job. At that time, what his job involved was driving on the freeways, checking for traffic infractions. He was westbound on I-40 in the Moriarty area when he came across Mr. Nissen's vehicle.

Now, running the vehicle through his system, he found that the vehicle itself had not been registered. It had actually expired in May of 2018. So as part of his job, he pulls him over and

As he does in every other traffic stop, he approaches him, the driver. He asks for proof of a driver's license, insurance, registration. Mr. Nissen hands him an ID, New Mexico ID, and does not give him a driver's license. Officer Burd hotices a shotgun in the vehicle and takes it for his safety, takes the ID, goes back to his vehicle, runs it. He calls dispatch, which means he calls in the name of Mr. Nissen and identifiers. Dispatch says, "No, no, he's got a driver's license. You have an ID, but he's got a valid driver's license," but confirms other things that he pulled over Mr. Nissen for.

So he goes back. Instead of arresting or towing Mr. Nissen's vehicle, he issues him two citations for lack of current registration and lack of proof of insurance and returns the shotgun to him, and he goes on his way.

Very soon after that interaction, which was about 5:45 in the afternoon, New Mexico State dispatch receives a call. That call, as you will hear, goes through -- as well as the calls that follow go through a switch, which you'll hear some information about. The switch is TTAS 005. It's in Carroll, who speaks with Mr. Nissen and attempts to defuse the situation and is unsuccessful.

Mr. Nissen then calls back minutes later, in the first call that I played for you, yelling at Victoria not to threaten him.

On November 26 of 2018, nearly a month later, still simmering, Mr. Nissen again calls New Mexico State Police dispatch, this time talking to Barbara Beuzekom. After educating Ms. Beuzekom on the law and speaking with her about speaking to her superiors, he issues two statements to her. "You need to mind your own fucking business," he states, "and I'm going to come and shoot you in your fucking head."

Barbara transfers Mr. Nissen to Julian Cordova, a state police officer, who records this conversation with Mr. Nissen, during which time Mr. Nissen continues to express his displeasure.

Those are the facts of the case. And as the Judge told you, your job here is to apply the law to those facts. We will not ask you to convict Mr. Nissen for profane or offensive language, which is obviously present. We will ask you to convict Mr. Nissen for the threats in between those lines, for stating that he will take his revolver out and

This is a simple case from which you can redact every one of those offensive statements and still find that he's guilty. Thank you.

> THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Uballez.

Mr. Gleria, do you have an opening statement for Mr. Nissen?

MR. GLERIA: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Mr. Gleria.

MR. GLERIA: Thank you, Your Honor. Mav I please move the podium? It's too close to the Elmo.

> THE COURT: You may.

MR. GLERIA: Ladies and gentlemen, you heard Judge Browning speak about our democratic system, and we have the right in our country of free speech, and that right is enshrined in the First Amendment of the United States Constitution. And just as Mr. Uballez stated, it can be profane; it can be offensive. It doesn't have to be correct. It can be hate speech. It's protected. Today you as the jurors have the power to determine the facts of this case and to determine if Mr. Nissen crossed the line.

The Government is focusing on the words it claims are the threats, threats that -- statements that they claim show that these statements by

Mr. Nissen are serious and, therefore, intended by him as threats. However, the evidence is the entirety of Mr. Nissen's recorded statements.

Mr. Nissen called police dispatch to educate police regarding the traffic stop and for having stopped him, in his words, for no good reason; and also to complain about his feelings that his constitutional rights were violated.

Mr. Nissen's statements are profane and Mr. Nissen's statements include figurative language. When he says "pigs," "You've got some of the stupidest fucking pigs on the road," that is figurative language. Now, it's obviously offensive, but it's figurative and, therefore, not literal, and clearly exaggerated. And that defines exaggeration, because he is overtly using exaggerated language to express his unhappiness. Mr. Nissen is ranting about his unhappiness for being stopped on the highway, for his perception, whether he's right or wrong, that his constitutional rights were violated for having been issued citations for no insurance and no registration.

it does not show. It does not show any act in furtherance of alleged threats. It's important for me to emphasize that the statements are figurative, pigs " and therefore exaggerated and not literal.

Not literal.

This occurred over the telephone.

Mr. Nissen is somewhere on the telephone, driving or stationary. Who knows? But he's nowhere near a police dispatch.

"I'll be right there to put a bullet dead on that pig's head." He didn't say that. And it's clearly ranting because it occurred at the end of his statements to dispatch. The statements, at least the first one that you heard, is conditional on a future stop and violation of his rights by law enforcement, something that did not occur.

The police are sensitive to security, as they should be, and I understand that all such statements should be looked into and taken seriously. But when you look at the context of those statements, these are words, words without any accompanying act in furtherance of what they claim are threats.

Mr. Nissen is ranting. He has a right to be upset. He has a right to call dispatch to complain. He has — you know, it's not very nice to use such profanity and to raise his voice. But these are

- Q. So when you typed in the information to check in your computer system, that wasn't the time that you asked dispatch to double-check for you?
 - A. Can you rephrase that? I'm sorry.
- Q. So what you've described is that you originally ran the information that you saw with your eyes, and your computer told you that the vehicle had expired registration and no insurance. When you called the stop in to dispatch and you say they

- It is, because dispatch runs it on their end as well, sir.
- And you do that so you make sure you don't pull over people for no reason?
- It double-confirms that they saw the same thing I saw.
- And did the truck that you later learned was driven by Mr. Nissen pull over in a timely fashion?
 - It did, sir.
- When you approach a vehicle on the highway, when you're doing this traffic stop, do you approach on the driver's side in the middle of the traffic, or on the passenger side on the shoulder?
- Always on the passenger side, sir, for Α. officer safety.
 - And is that what you did here? Q.
 - Yes, sir. Α.
- And while you were walking up to the truck 0. that you later realized Michael Nissen was driving, did you see anything that caught your attention?

- Q. So after you introduced yourself to Mr. Nissen and told him the reason for the stop, did he respond at all to you?
 - A. He did, sir.
 - Q. And how did he respond to you?
- A. He responded by basically saying that I had no legal authority to be stopping his vehicle; that he identified himself as, I believe the word he used, as a traveler. He stated at this moment in time he was traveling, and again, I did not have the legal authority nor the means to apply traffic laws to him, that they did not apply to him because he was a traveler, and everything basically I was doing was illegal.

- Q. Before he said those words to you, have you had any training on the existence of folks who believe those things?
- A. We've had prior training as well as prior experiences in my law enforcement career. Typically, I would say anyone that might possibly identify themselves as a traveler may apply themselves to a specific group of people who don't -- believe that our specific state or county laws don't apply, and believe that -- I believe he kept quoting the Constitution.
- Q. And do you have training in how to make sure that encounters with folks like that don't get more hectic than is necessary?
- A. Yes, sir. Basically to just stick to the standard patrol operations, not to delve into any arguments of the law, but rather, just stay straightforward and enforce the legal state law.
- Q. So after he revealed those beliefs to you, what did you do next?

A. I again requested again for his license as well as vehicle information. Again, it was several minutes of riff-raff about my legal authority to be stopping — to have the legal authority to stop his vehicle. Eventually he did provide me with his New Mexico identification card. He didn't provide any other vehicle information.

At this point I found for my safety I was going to remove that shotgun out of his vehicle. It did. I reached in and removed the shotgun from the vehicle. I believe I told him, "This will be returned to you at the conclusion of this stop, but for my safety it's not going to be in your presence."

- Q. And did he respond to that in any way?
- A. He did. He began to raise his voice. His face, I believe, got a little redder. He was stating didn't have the legal authority to de-arm him, I believe was the word he used, and it was -- my feelings were, he was pretty agitated with that situation.
- Q. What did you do after temporarily taking custody of that firearm and informing him of why you did it?
- A. At this point, that's when I went back to my patrol unit. I secured the shotgun there

2	MR. MYSLIWIEC: I'll pass the witness, Your
3	Honor.
4	THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Mysliwiec.
5	Mr. Mkhitarian, do you have
6	cross-examination of Mr. Burd?
7	MR. MKHITARIAN: Thank you, Your Honor.
8	THE COURT: Mr. Mkhitarian.
9	MR. MKHITARIAN: Thank you, ladies and
10	gentlemen of the jury. I am Mr. Jack Mkhitarian. I
11	apologize, I didn't get a chance to speak earlier
12	today, so I'll take the time now to do that.
13	CROSS-EXAMINATION
14	BY MR. MKHITARIAN:
15	Q. Good afternoon. Is it Officer Burd?
16	A. It's officer.
17	Q. Officer Burd, did I hear it correctly that
18	you have five and a half years' experience in law
19	enforcement prior to coming here today?
20	A. Yes, sir. I started the law enforcement
21	New Mexico State Police Law Enforcement Academy in
22	January of 2013.
23	Q. And did you serve all that time
24	A. 2014.
25	Q that whole time as an officer, has that

- Q. So for a total of five and a half years?
- A. Yes, sir.
 - Q. Would you agree that you've arrested, you know, more than 100 people?
 - A. Yes, sir.
 - Q. Hundreds?
 - A. A fair assessment, I would say.
 - Q. And would you say you've probably pulled over thousands of people?
 - A. Yes, sir.
 - Q. Now, in your experience in the five and a half years, have you arrested people for putting you in threatening situations?
 - A. Can you define that, sir?
- Q. Are you familiar with the term felony or high-risk stop?
 - A. Yes, sir.
 - Q. Could you explain to the jury what that is?
 - A. A felony stop, as far as our lingo is concerned, would be a stop where immediately my handgun or duty weapon would be drawn, knowing that the person has already actively committed a felony or possibly have the -- we had the reasonable suspicion

- Q. How about if a vehicle you light up to pull over starts driving erratically and thereby putting the motoring public and yourself in danger? Is that also grounds for a felony or high-risk stop?

MR. MYSLIWIEC: Objection, relevance.

BY MR. MKHITARIAN:

Q. Did that happen in this situation?

THE COURT: Overruled.

- A. It didn't.
- Q. So in a felony stop, would it be fair to say that you're threatened by the driver's conduct either sometime before he got into the car or while he's in the car, thereby justifying you to pull your weapon upon pulling him over?
- A. Are you trying to define as me with prior knowledge of his threatening level? I don't get what you're saying.
 - Q. What I'm saying, if you have reason to conduct a felony stop, part of a felony stop is that that person's conduct was threatening either before or while he was in the vehicle; is that correct?

A. Correct.

 - A. I did not felony stop him.
- Q. Okay. So now moving on to other people you had pulled over. You had mentioned you had pulled over hundreds. After a traffic citation or a DUI, has anyone ever gotten aggressive with you to where you had to arrest them and take them in?
 - A. Yes, sir.
 - Q. That didn't happen in this case, did it?
 - A. No, sir.
- Q. Now, going back to the reason you pulled Mr. Nissen over, there are a lot of things you actually didn't see as well; is that correct?
 - A. What do you mean by that, sir?
- Q. You didn't see Mr. Nissen speeding, did you?
 - A. Are you talking about moving violations?
 - Q. Correct.
 - A. I didn't observe a moving violation.

He was driving within his lane; correct? 1 0. 2 Α. He was. He was obeying all traffic signals; 3 0. 4 correct? He was on the interstate so there wasn't 5 Α. 6 any. But in this case he followed your commands, 15 0. pulled over in a safe location? 16 As safe as it could be. 17 In an appropriate location? 18 0. 19 Α. Yes. He didn't stop in the middle of the 20 0. freeway? 21 22 Α. No. He didn't slam his brakes? 23 0. No. 24 Α.

Now, upon making contact with Mr. Nissen,

1	you said that he immediately began to talk about
2	travelers and his rights and things like that. Did I
3	hear that correctly?
4	A. Yes, sir.
5	Q. And if I'm not mistaken, the United States
6	Attorney told you that or asked you if you got
7	training about people like this; is that correct?
8	A. We have.
9	Q. And is that because did you get training
10	because it's so common to run into people with these
11	types of political beliefs?
12	A. It's not common, sir.
13	Q. Common enough to get training on it;
14	correct?
15	A. Exactly.
16	Q. So it's something that your department is 17	aware of and actively tries to educate you on; is
18	that correct?
19	A. That's correct.
20	Q. So you knew going into this that
21	immediately upon talking to him, your training kicked
22	in and said, "Oh, wait. Our department told us there
23	are people like this on the road."

yes.

- A. You can't be trained on driver's statements, sir.
- Q. But you were trained about the traveler sovereign citizen questioning that Mr. Mysliwiec told you about; is that correct?
- A. We were trained on sovereign citizen beliefs that certain individuals identify themselves as travelers. But we can't specifically train for each individual.
- Q. And I'm not saying you're specifically trained to pull over Mr. Nissen. But you and your department are aware of these types of political beliefs.
 - A. Yes, sir.
- Q. Okay. Now you got training to do this, and so it's not unusual for you to pull people like this over. And as a matter of fact, Mr. Nissen tried to educate you by explaining to you what his thoughts were on -- I'm going to use his words -- his beliefs or his politics; isn't that correct?
- A. Well, I'd have to recant what you said before when you said it's not unusual to stop. It was unusual.

 - A. Yes, sir.
- Q. So would you characterize him as trying to teach you his political beliefs? Is that a way to characterize what he was trying to communicate to you?
- A. I think he was trying to basically get out of the traffic stop, is the way I saw it.
- Q. By explaining to you how he felt about your authority in the terms of his political beliefs?
- A. Yeah, my authority to be -- to have authority to make a traffic stop on him.
- Q. So, now, throughout the traffic stop, Mr. Nissen never made a motion for a gun, did he?
 - A. He never motioned for it.
- Q. Did he make any threatening lunges at you to make you feel like you were going to be battered

 - A. No.
- Q. After completing your business with him, did Mr. Nissen drive off in an aggressive manner?
 - A. I can't recall his manner.
- Q. Did you identify anything that was unusual after completing the traffic stop?
 - A. No.
- Q. Did he chase you and threaten you or tailgate you or flip you off or anything like that?
- A. I waited until he left before I left the area.
- Q. So is it safe to say that at the conclusion of the traffic stop, you did not fear Mr. Nissen battering you or harming you in any way?
 - A. Not
- Q. Did you have any concerns, concern enough to notify dispatch that "I just got through with this traffic stop; I want to alert other officers that there is this threatening person on the road"? Did you do that afterwards?
 - A. What do you mean? Did I contact my

1	dispatch?
2	Q. Correct.
3	A. They were notified that I was out with a
4	combative subject. They were.
5	Q. Did you feel like the stop was threatening
6	enough to let other officers know that Mr. Nissen
7	could be a danger?
8	A. Yes, because two sheriff's deputies did
9	arrive on my stop.
10	Q. Okay. But after the stop was done, you had 11	no reason to believe that Mr. Nissen was going to
12	harm you or any other officer?
13	A. No, not and come back. I didn't believe he
14	was going to come back to my stop.
15	Q. At the time after you let him go?
16	A. Yeah.
17	Q. So you were completely safe with Mr. Nissen
18	leaving the traffic stop after you concluded the
19	business?
20	A. Yes.
21	MR. MKHITARIAN: May I have a moment, Your
22	Honor?
23	THE COURT: You may.
24	BY MR. MKHITARIAN:

And one of the reasons why you felt safe is because you actually put the gun back in Mr. Nissen's 1 2 car; is that correct? 3 Α. No. I didn't feel safe giving it back to him, but it was his legal property I couldn't deprive 4 5 him of unless it was for officer safety while we were 6 conducting our traffic stop. 7 You didn't feel threatened enough by Mr. Nissen to keep his firearm? 8 9 I didn't have the legal authority to not return to it him if he wasn't under arrest. 10 So you had returned the firearm and you had 11 0. 12 let Mr. Nissen go, and at that point your business 13 had concluded? 14 Α. Yes, sir. MR. MKHITARIAN: I'll pass the witness, 15 16 Your Honor. 17 Thank you, Mr. Mkhitarian. THE COURT: Mr. Mysliwiec, do you have redirect of 18 19 Mr. Burd? 20 MR. MYSLIWIEC: Brief. 21 THE COURT: Mr. Mysliwiec. REDIRECT EXAMINATION 22 23 BY MR. MYSLIWIEC:

Mr. Burd, we've been talking about

Mr. Nissen. Just for the jury's benefit, could you

1	tell us if you see Mr. Nissen in the courtroom today?
2	A. I do, sir.
3	Q. And could you describe where he's sitting
4	and maybe an article of clothing he's wearing so the
5	jury can know who you mean?
6	A. He's wearing a blue, long-sleeved shirt and
7	sitting at the very end of the defense's table.
8	MR. MYSLIWIEC: Your Honor, can the record
9	reflect that the witness has identified the
10	defendant?
11	THE COURT: The record will so reflect.
12	BY MR. MYSLIWIEC:
13	Q. So Mr. Mkhitarian asked you if you were
14	trained on sovereign citizens because they are so
15	common, and you said no. Do you know why the New
16	Mexico State Police trains patrol officers on the
17	existence of sovereign citizens?
18	A. Definitely, because it's for officer safety
19	purposes, because this specific group does not
20	identify local or state law enforcement as having the
21	authority to enforce laws on this specific group. $ar{f A}$
22	lot of times we've been trained that they see county.

23	sheriffs as the only ones that can enforce laws,

As far as you are aware, is the belief that

Q.

- the New Mexico State Police is invalid or somehow lacks authority to conduct traffic stops -- is that a political belief?
 - I don't know how I'd define that, honestly. Α.
- Were you trained that it's a political 0. belief?
 - It could be. Α.
 - Mr. Mkhitarian asked you if at the time of 0. the traffic stop you felt threatened. essentially, you said not enough to arrest him over it; is that correct?

- Did you later learn that Mr. Nissen threatened to kill you?
 - Α. I did.
 - And how did you later learn that? 0.
 - From the dispatcher that received a phone call from him approximately a half-hour after the traffic stop was conducted.
 - And did you ever receive any guidance on what to do if you ever encountered Mr. Nissen again, after having learned about that threat?
 - What do you mean by that, sir? I'm sorry.
 - Did you ever get an all-officer bulletin or Q. a briefing before another shift or some kind of

1	guidance from the NMSP leadership about Michael
2	Nissen after he called in the threat to kill you?
3	A. That came about later, yeah.
4	Q. What guidance did you get?
5	A. I believe there was a photo of him placed
6	in our office. I believe also for our administrative
7	staff who worked during the day shift and let people
8	in and out of the building, I believe they were I
9	believe our administrative staff was told to avoid
10	the individual and let law enforcement deal with him
11	based off of threats, prior threats that had been
12	made.
13	Q. And since you're law enforcement, did you
14	get any instructions on what to do if you were on 19	made threats towards law enforcement.

20	MR. GLERIA: Objection, Your Honor. May we
21	approach?
22	THE COURT: You may.
23	(The following proceedings were held at the 24	bench.)
25	MR. GLERIA: So I don't want to have to move for a mistrial. But now he's eliciting 1 testimony about prior threats, something that there 2 is no evidence about. 3 MR. MYSLIWIEC: That's not happening. 4 Why don't we do this? THE COURT: 5 don't you kind of clean it up that there are no prior 6 7 threats. MR. MYSLIWIEC: Well, that would be false. 8 First of all, I don't know whose witness he is. 9 MR. GLERIA: Lower your voice, please. 10 Second of all, Mr. Mkhitarian THE COURT: 11 opened this line of questioning. 12 Lower your voice, please. MR. GLERIA: 13 MR. MYSLIWIEC: I need to be heard on the 14 record, Mr. Gleria. Mr. Mkhitarian asked on cross 15 whether at the time of this traffic stop Officer Burd 16 felt threatened. So I'm asking about what Officer 17 Burd learned after this traffic stop was over. 18 not talking about any threats before November 2nd. 19 I'm asking Officer Burd only about the instructions 20 that he got after Mr. Nissen called in to Victoria 21 Gurule the specific threat to kill Officer Burd, 22

THE COURT: Well, I'm open to suggestions to make sure the jury doesn't have any thoughts about which is the subject of Count 1.

24

1	any prior threats. Is there a way that we can
2	eliminate that issue for the jury?
3	MR. MYSLIWIEC: I haven't brought the issue
4	up. It hasn't been the subject of any questions or
5	the subject of any answer.
6	MR. GLERIA: He testified about prior
7	threats and then he did it again. And that's not the
8	subject matter of the trial.
9	MR. MYSLIWIEC: Mr. Gleria's recitation of
10	the facts is inaccurate.
11	MR. GLERIA: Let me speak.
12	THE COURT: Hold on a second. Let me just
13	look at the transcript and see what we've got here.
14	The question is: "Did you later learn that 15	Mr. Nissen threatened to kill you?"
16	And he said, "I did."
17	"And how did you later learn that?"
18	It would seem to me that the jury would
19	just think it's the threat we've heard in opening
20	statements.
21	MR. GLERIA: See, I don't think so, Judge.
22	THE COURT: What would you think? It
23	didn't click with me, because I don't know of any
24	prior threats.
25	MR. GLERIA: The police officer testified about prior threats. 1 It didn't happen. 2 MR. MYSLIWIEC: MR. GLERIA: The naked language is that 3 they have a prior experience with Mr. Nissen. He's 4 previously threatened them. 5 MR. MYSLIWIEC: That's contrary to the 6 7 testimony. He's looking it up right now. MR. GLERIA: 8 THE COURT: I don't see it. 9 It's just toward the end when 10 MR. GLERIA: I objected to --11 THE COURT: Let me go down here. 12 says -- where does it say it? I'm not sure the jury, 13 given what they've heard -- it didn't to me, because 14 I don't know of any prior threats before this. But 15 I'm open to anything to sort of eliminate that. 16 17 But --MR. MYSLIWIEC: Any attention Mr. Gleria 18 wants to draw to prior threats, he can. But I 19 didn't --20 MR. GLERIA: Can you find it there, Judge? 21 Because the officer twice stated "prior threats." 22 THE COURT: Well, it says right there -- it 23 says, "I believe our administrative staff was told to 24 avoid the individual and let law enforcement deal 25 with him based off of threats, prior threats that had 1 2 been made." 3 MR. GLERIA: I would just ask that those 4 statements be stricken, that testimony be stricken, 5 that the jury be instructed to disregard that and the 6 previous statements, in that it's irrelevant to the 7 case. 8 MR. MYSLIWIEC: That's improper. First of 9 all, the defense opened the door to --10 THE COURT: Hold on. Tell me what you 11 would want me to say, Mr. Gleria, because I fear 12 that --13 MR. GLERIA: I fear repeating it is going 14 to make it worse. 15 THE COURT: Well, the reason I think it is, 16 because I'm not sure, just like I know this case as 17 well or better than the jury, and it didn't ring any 18 bells with me. I just thought he was referencing the 19 phone calls that had been made. That's when the 20 bulletins and everything went out, is after he called 21 in. Tell me what you want me to do. 22 MR. GLERIA: Have Mr. Mysliwiec clean it 23 up. 24 THE COURT: How does he clean it up without making it worse? I'm not sure there is a problem right now, but if you want it cleaned up, we'll work 1 2 on it. MR. MKHITARIAN: May I speak, Your Honor? 3 THE COURT: Yeah. 4 MR. MKHITARIAN: The leading question, no prior threats were made prior to pulling him over. MR. MYSLIWIEC: That's false, though. I'm 7 not going to elicit false testimony. I have not 8 asked about it. I'm happy not to ask about it. But 9 I'm not going to elicit false testimony. 10 Well, I don't know of any prior THE COURT: 11 threats the jury doesn't know of. 12 MR. GLERIA: I've got a concern because 13 it's right there. 14 Tell me what you want to do. THE COURT: 15 MR. MKHITARIAN: Not make more mention of 16 17 it. MR. GLERIA: Instruct the jury to disregard 18 19 those. MR. MKHITARIAN: We don't need to draw more 20 attention to it. Just leave it. 21 Well, if it happens MR. GLERIA: Yeah. 22 again, you can count on me to object. 23 MR. MYSLIWIEC: So here's my objection. 24 MR. GLERIA: He lost --25

MR. MYSLIWIEC: Are we doing the one-attorney-one-witness rule?

THE COURT: I want to get this right. I'll take what help I can get on this one. Probably we need to do it. But let's get it right there. Is there anything you can think of that you need? It seems to me there is a 90 percent, 100 percent chance that the jury doesn't have a clue what we're talking about. Because I heard the words and nothing clicked for me and I know the case. But I'm open to suggestions. I'll probably do --

MR. GLERIA: Recess, move on.

MR. MKHITARIAN: Move on with the warning not to talk about prior threats.

THE COURT: Why don't you come up, Officer.

(The witness approached the bench.)

THE COURT: In your testimony do not mention any prior threats. Do not use the word "prior." So don't.

MR. MYSLIWIEC: Anything that happened before your traffic stop on November 2, pretend that doesn't exist.

THE COURT: Mr. Mysliwiec is not going to ask you about any questions about prior threats.

Mr. Mkhitarian is not going to ask you any questions

18	Q. Can you tell the jury how you recognize
19	that voice?
20	A. I recognize that voice because I was on a
21	traffic stop with him for approximately 10 minutes.
22	Q. During that traffic stop, as far as you
23	know, were you derelict of your duty?
24	A. I was not, sir.
25	Q. As far as you know, are you a neo-Nazi?

1	A. I am not, sir.
2	Q. As far as you are aware, are you a traitor?
3	A. I am not a traitor, sir.
4	MR. MYSLIWIEC: That's all I have, Your
5	Honor.
6	THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Mysliwiec.
7	Anything further, Mr. Mkhitarian?
8	MR. MKHITARIAN: No, Your Honor.
9	THE COURT: All right, Mr. Burd, you may
10	step down.
11	Is there any reason Mr. Burd cannot be
12	excused from the proceedings? Mr. Mysliwiec?
13	MR. MYSLIWIEC: No, Your Honor.
14	MR. MKHITARIAN: No, Your Honor.
15	THE COURT: All right. You're excused from
16	the proceedings. Thank you for your testimony.
17	THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.
18	THE COURT: All right. Let's be in recess
19	for about 15 minutes, and we'll come in and continue
20	the Government's case.
21	(The jury left the courtroom.)
22	THE COURT: All right. Anything we need to
23	discuss before we take our break, Mr. Mysliwiec?
24	MR. MYSLIWIEC: No, thank you, Your Honor.

MR. GLERIA: No, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. We'll be in recess

(The Court stood in recess.)

THE COURT: On the jury instruction on your expert, is it going to be this FBI agent?

MR. MYSLIWIEC: The only guy who could conceivably be an expert for us is a T-Mobile guy. He's just kind of explaining how phone calls work. I don't know how expert it is. But he personally knows because of his interaction with the phone company and how phone networks have evolved over the last decade or so.

THE COURT: Well, the jury instruction says -- you didn't give a name of the person who expressed opinions concerning modern telephone transmission technology. Is that the T-Mobile person?

MR. MYSLIWIEC: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: So what do you want,

Mr. Gleria, Mr. Mkhitarian? Do you want the expert witness instruction given and put the name of the

T-Mobile person in, or do you want to just pull it and not talk about it?

MR. GLERIA: Just pull it.

1	VICTORIA GURULE,
2	after having been first duly sworn under oath,
3	was questioned, and testified as follows:
4	THE CLERK: Go ahead and be seated.
5	THE COURT: All right, Ms. Gurule,
6	Mr. Mysliwiec.
7	DIRECT EXAMINATION
8	BY MR. MYSLIWIEC:
9	Q. Ms. Gurule, now that you're sworn in, could
10	you please introduce yourself to the jury by telling
11	them your full name, occupation, and current
12	assignment?
13	A. My name is Victoria Gurule. I work for the
14	New Mexico State Police as a 911 dispatcher.
15	Q. How long have you been a 911 dispatcher?
16	A. A little over 13 years.
17	Q. Has all that time been with the New Mexico
18	State Police?
19	A. No, sir. Only two years with the State
20	Police. Previously was with the Bernalillo County
21	Sheriff's Department.
22	Q. And were you working on November 2, 2018,
23	last year?
24	A. Yes.
25	Q. And what shift were you working; do you

1 remember?

16

17

18

- A. Swing shift.
 - O. And what hours are swing shift?
- A. 2:00 to 10:00.
- Q. So you were working around 5:45 p.m. local time?
- 7 A. Yes.
 - Q. Did you supervise or participate in any traffic stops that happened around that time?
- 10 A. Yes.
- Q. Do you remember if Officer Burd was conducting one of the traffic stops that you participated in?
 - A. Yes, sir.
 - Q. And did you know from supervising Officer Burd on that traffic stop that he had a traffic encounter with a person named Michael Nissen?
 - A. Yes.
- Q. Did you ever receive any phone calls from Michael Nissen later that day after the traffic stop was over?
- A. Yes. Not long after Officer Burd cleared his traffic stop, I got a phone call from him.
- Q. And how do you know that it's Michael Nissen that called you when you say you got a phone call from him?

- A. Because I was on the radio that took Officer Burd's traffic stop, so I knew who he was out with.
- Q. And did you recognize Mr. Nissen's voice when you heard it?
 - A. Yes.
- Q. And we're going to play it in just a moment, but just for now, would you describe to the jury how that first phone call sounded to you?
- A. He was extremely agitated, very upset that he was pulled over, just very aggressive. A lot of yelling.
- Q. Do you have a process as a dispatcher that you're supposed to follow when you get what you would describe as a complaint phone call?
 - A. Yes.
 - Q. What's that process?
- A. If it's an initial complaint, we have a standardized form that we fill out that goes straight up to the captain.
- Q. And did you receive a second phone call from Mr. Nissen that same day?
 - A. Yes, sir.
 - Q. Would you describe that second phone call

- It escalated into him threatening to hurt any law enforcement officer that he came in contact with.
- And what is the difference -- as you are trained to take these calls and to do whatever you do next, what's the difference between a complaint phone call and a threat phone call?
- That second phone call told me that -- I mean, basically any law enforcement officer that comes in contact with him is at risk. Clear disdain for law enforcement. He was clearly upset, threatening to hurt them. So that wasn't a typical phone call for me.
- Do you treat threat phone calls the same way, where you fill out a form and put it in the captain's inbox?
 - No, sir. Α.
- What do you do when it's a threat phone Q. call?

- A. You notify the on-duty sergeant.
- Q. And who was the on-duty sergeant that night, if you remember?
 - A. Sergeant Steven Carroll.
- Q. Are you experienced in working with Sergeant Carroll?

 - A. I don't know.
- Q. Are you familiar with Sergeant Carroll's demeanor when he deals with members of the public?
 - A. Yes.
- Q. If I told you that I thought that Sergeant Carroll threatened me, would you be skeptical or would you believe that he probably did?
 - A. I would be skeptical.
- Q. Why would you be skeptical if a person told that you Sergeant Carroll threatened them?
- A. I don't know him to operate that way. I've worked on a shift with him for a while now, and it's

 - A. Yes.
- Q. Is there anything else in the transcript that you heard differently than is currently listed?
 - A. No.
- Q. Now, that was the phone call you described as a complaint but not a threat; right?
 - A. Yes.
- Q. And so after that, you filled out the form that goes up to the captain; right?
 - A. Yes.
- Q. Do you know if the captain read that form before you got the second phone call we talked about?
 - A. I'm not sure.
- Q. I'm about to play the second phone call we talked about, and we're going to put up the transcript for it as well. I'm going to ask you to

Okay? 5 6 Α. Yes. So we'll play Exhibit 2, is what we're 7 8 about to play now. (Audio played.) 9 As far as you could tell, does that 10 0. transcript look accurate? 11 Um-hum. 12 Α. Now, on the first phone call you said, 13 "I'll pass that complaint on to the officer." 14 15 Α. Um-hum. Did you mean that? 16 0. 17 Α. Yes. At the time that you took that first phone 18 call, did you know that it was Officer Burd who had 19 pulled Mr. Nissen over? 20 21 Α. Yes. And that's because you were on duty 22 0. supervising Officer Burd during that stop. 23

- Q. Is that second phone call the one that you told us you considered a threat?
 - A. Yes.
- Q. And was there any specific language in there that you thought was political in nature?
- A. Not necessarily. I was more focused on the fact that he threatened any law enforcement officer he comes into contact with.
- Q. As far as you know, none of the things you considered to be threatening had anything to do with politics or elections?
 - A. No.
- Q. What did you do after you fielded this second phone call?
- A. After I took that phone call, I notified the on-duty sergeant and let him know that it was an individual from Officer Burd's traffic stop, and told him the nature of the phone call, who it was. Gave him the contact number just in case he wanted to do anything with it at that point.
- Q. And then I'm going to play for you -- did you indeed get a third phone call that same night from Mr. Nissen?

- A. I believe so.
- Q. I'm going to play for you what's been put into evidence already as Government's Exhibit 3, and we're going to show a transcript at the same time, just like we've been doing.

(Audio played.)

- Q. Did you hang up on Mr. Nissen there, or did he hang up on you?
- A. I don't recall. I think he might have hung up on me.
- Q. Okay. Do you have training on the difference between a complaint phone call and a threat phone call, or is it just your experience over time?
- A. It's my experience over time. I haven't had any training directly correlated to that itself, but I've experienced a lot of it in my career.
- Q. Do you have training on whether it's a good idea to ignore things that you consider threatening, given your experience?

MR. GLERIA: Objection, leading.

- Q. What are you supposed to do if you consider a phone call to be threatening rather than merely complaining?
- A. So if I deem something threatening in my experience and in my training, it doesn't hurt to notify the on-duty sergeant just to be aware of the situation. It's not going to do any harm just to notify him, just in case.
- Q. Did you let Officer Burd directly know that you had gotten these phone calls?
 - A. Yes.
 - Q. Why did you tell Officer Burd directly?
- A. So I told him directly because of the area that he pulled him over in, it's a little farther out from centralized Albuquerque, so his backup is a little farther out than anyone else's. And I told him directly just in case he comes into contact with him again, because, again, you never know. It's better to be safe than sorry.
- Q. I have an exhibit that I'm going to pull up on the screen that is already in evidence as Government's Exhibit 5. It's some phone records.

 I'm going to ask you if you can identify whether you recognize any of the phone numbers on this record.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. GLERIA:

- Q. Good afternoon, Ms. Gurule.
- A. Good afternoon, sir.
- Q. Ms. Gurule, Mr. Nissen called you -- do you remember what time the first call came in?
 - A. I'm not sure of the exact time, sir.
 - Q. You said you were on a swing shift?
 - A. Yes.
 - Q. Is that nighttime?
 - A. Yes.

1	O And you were not threatened has see S. I.
	Q. And you were not threatened by any of the
2	three calls yourself, were you?
3	A. No.
4	Q. Okay. And regarding the first call, you
5	had a chance to hear that call again today?
6	A. Yes.
7	Q. Does that refresh your memory about the
8	content of the call?
9	A. Yes.
10	Q. And Mr. Nissen called to tell you, I guess,
11	about federal law and a way to put it would be to say
12	that he called to educate you or have you educate
13	other police about the law?
14	A. Yes.
15	Q. Okay. And that's what he told you; right?
16	That that was the purpose of his call?
17	A. Um-hum.
18	Q. Okay. And he also complained quite a bit;
19	is that right?
20	A. Yes.
21	Q. And he was complaining about his
22	constitutional rights being violated. Isn't that
23	what he said?
24	A. Yes.
25	Q. And he had some choice statements to make?

 - A. Yes, sir.

 Burd was over; right?

 - Q. Last we knew, he was traveling westbound.
 - A. Correct.
- Q. But Officer Burd's a Torrance County sheriff; is that right?
- A. Correct.
- Q. And we're not in Torrance County at that point.
- 13 A. Correct.
 - Q. You testified that he also stated that in the second call, I believe it was, or maybe the third call, or maybe the second call -- I'm getting confused -- that he states that "All I've been doing is practicing my First Amendment with you guys." You heard that; right?
 - A. Correct.
 - Q. Okay. And is it your protocol to contact the sheriff every time you have someone making aggressive statements?
 - A. No, it's not protocol.
 - Q. It's not protocol?

- 1
1	A. Hum-um.
2	Q. All right. So is it your protocol to
3	contact the sheriff, like well, what you said was
4	that what you said was, "It doesn't hurt to notify
5	the sergeant."
6	A. Correct.
7	Q. Okay. So that's what you did, if you deem
8	it to be threatening, which you already testified
9	that you did
10	A. Yes.
11	Q that it doesn't hurt to notify the
12	sheriff or the sergeant?
13	A. Correct.
14	Q. Is that why you notified the sergeant?
15	A. Yes.
16	Q. And then you testified that you called
17	Officer Burd, too; right?
18	A. Yes.
19	Q. Okay. But isn't it correct that Mr. Nissen
20	spoke in figurative language? And if you don't
21	understand what I'm saying, say so.
22	MR. MYSLIWIEC: Objection, calls for an interpretation of what occurred.

BY MR. GLERIA:

- So a pig is not a human being; right?
- Because of the context of what he was Α. saying, that's how I interpreted it.
- Well, context is very important in this 0. particular case. But when he refers to pigs on the road, I mean, isn't that the definition of gigurative speech?
 - Α. Yes, sir.
- Okay. And clearly exaggerated because a human being can't be a pig; right?
 - Α. Right.
- 0. And, therefore, not literal; right? not literal in his statements that he made to you? MR. MYSLIWIEC: Objection. It's a compound question because it refers to multiple statements in one question.

THE COURT: Well, why don't you take them one at a time.

BY MR. GLERIA:

- Okay. So if he's referring to unnamed individuals as pigs, then that is figurative, is it ⊲not?
 - Α. Yeah. Yes, sir.

- Q. And it's therefore exaggerated, is it not?
- A. Again, because of the context of the conversation.
- Q. And I understand. I understand what you're saying. I mean, it can't be pleasant and I understand that. But it's clearly not literal.

MR. MYSLIWIEC: Objection. Is that a question?

MR. GLERIA: It is a question.

THE COURT: It's proper. Overruled.

BY MR. GLERIA:

- Q. It's clearly not literal. And this occurred on the telephone; right?
 - A. Correct.
 - Q. So Officer Burd is nowhere around.
 - A. Correct.
- Q. I mean, we don't know where Officer Burd is; isn't that right?
 - A. Correct.
- Q. And we don't really know where Mr. Nissen
- 21 is.

19

25

- 22 A. Correct.
- Q. So there is a big separation of space. I mean, isn't that correct?
 - A. Correct.

1

- Q. Okay. And when Mr. Nissen -- would you describe his complaints or his statements as a rant?
 - A. Somewhat.
 - Q. He was ranting wasn't he?
 - A. Somewhat.
- Q. All right. What he said was, in the second call -- no, I'm sorry. Take that back. And what he said was, "The next time I get stopped, I'm going to do this and that to your stupid pigs." Isn't that right?
 - A. Correct.
- Q. Okay. But there was never a next time.

 Isn't that true?
 - A. Correct.
- Q. So it was conditioned on being stopped. He was never stopped a second time.
 - A. Correct.
- Q. Correct? And you contacted the sergeant in this particular case because you wanted to notify him of these statements; isn't that right?
 - A. Correct.
- Q. And were you instructed to contact Officer Burd?
 - A. No.
 - Q. And you stated that you called Officer Burd

- because, quote, you never know.
 - A. Correct.
- Q. That's the reason; right? You never know, like, as a precaution?
 - A. Correct.
- Q. Okay. But not because you believed anything was going to happen.
 - A. As a precaution, yes.
- Q. As a precaution. You did this as a precaution?
 - A. Yes.
 - Q. Not because of imminent threat; right?
- A. Somewhat.
 - Q. Somewhat?
 - A. Yes.
 - Q. Okay. So here we are on the telephone, separated by distance; right? We don't know what the distance exactly is. Mr. Nissen tells you that, "Next time, if it happens again, this is what I'm going to do to pigs"; right?
 - A. Right.
 - Q. You already said it's figurative and not literal; right?

MR. MYSLIWIEC: Objection. It was describing Officer Burd as a pig that she says was

2	THE COURT: Well, I think she can answer
3	the question. Overruled.
4	BY MR. GLERIA:
5	Q. Isn't it true that one of the main things
6	Mr. Nissen had to say was that his rights were being
7	violated, and that's the reason he called?
8	A. Correct,
9	Q. Okay. And his statements were political,
10	because he's talking about the constitution and his
11	rights?
12	A. Correct.
13	Q. And those are the statements he made to 14	you; right?
15	A. Correct.
16	Q. Okay. And he never said, "I'm going to
17	hurt you, Ms. Gurule; I'm going to harm you"?
18	A. No.
19	Q. Okay. All right.
20	MR. GLERIA: If I could just have a moment,

22	THE COURT: You may.
23	MR. GLERIA: Just a couple more questions,
24	Your Honor.

1	BY MR. GLERIA:
2	Q. So when he said, "I'm going to have my day
3	in court," and you said, "Good luck with that," you
4	didn't seem alarmed.
5	A. No.
6	Q. And is that how you're trained to
7	responded? "Good luck with that"?
8	A. My safety wasn't in question at that point
9	Q. Okay. But no, I'm talking about the
10	statement he said, "I'm going to have my day in 11	court," and you said, "Good luck with that."
12	A. Yeah, that was my way of ending the
13	conversation.
14	MR. GLERIA: All right. Thank you.
15	THE COURT: All right. Thank you,
16	Mr. Gleria.
17	MR. GLERIA: You're welcome.
18	THE COURT: Mr. Mysliwiec, do you have

20	MR. MYSLIWIEC: Brief.
21	THE COURT: Mr. Mysliwiec.

That wouldn't have been okay. Α.

Because the pig comment isn't the part that 0. mattered to you, was it?

- That's not the part that mattered.
- And when we go later in the phone call, and Q. we say, "I'm going to put that motherfucker drop dead," you did not consider that a threat because of the word "motherfucker," did you?
 - No. Α.
- What did you consider a threat about that paragraph, if anything?
- The 'drop dead' comment. Again, telling me he's going to hurt a law enforcement officer.
- Did he say he was going to pull out a water Q. balloon and put that motherfucker drop dead?
 - Yes. Α.
 - Do you know what a revolver is? Ο.
 - Α. Yes.
 - What's a revolver? 0.
 - Α. A firearm.
 - As far as you're aware, a revolver is equal to water balloons in dangerousness or more dangerous than water balloons?
 - More dangerous. Α.
 - Can you confirm for us that even though you Q.

1	might not like a person you know being called a
2	motherfucker, can you confirm for us that you did not
3	believe this to be a threatening phone call because
4	of that word?
5	A. That's correct.
6	Q. Would you have treated this phone call
7	exactly the same if none of the "pigs" and none of
8	the curse words were in it?
9	A. That's correct.
10	Q. The pig language was figurative. We've met
11	Officer Burd. He is a human. But did you take the
12	two threats in this phone call to be real threats?
13	A. Yes.
14	MR. MYSLIWIEC: That's all I have.
15	THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Mysliwiec.
16	Anything further, Mr. Gleria?
17	MR. GLERIA: No, Your Honor.
18	THE COURT: All right. Ms. Gurule, you may

22	BY MR. UBALLEZ:
23	Q. Good morning.
24	A. Good morning, sir.
25	Q. Mr. Lecesne, where do you work?

I work for T-Mobile, a cellular telephone 1 Α. 2 company, in Richardson, Texas. 3 What do you do for T-Mobile? 0. 4 My official title is records Α. custodian/testifier. 5 6 What are the responsibilities of a records 7 custodian? 8 When I'm assigned to a specific trial, I usually travel. I attend court and I authenticate, 9 explain, and certify the T-Mobile phone records 10 11 involved in a specific trial. 12 How long have you held this role? Ο. 13 Α. Since August of 2011. 14 0. Is it all for T-Mobile? 15 Back in 2011, I actually started doing this Α. 16 for Metro PCS. In 2012, 2013, T-Mobile acquired Metro PCS, so I moved over to T-Mobile as a records 17 18 custodian also. 19 Your relevant job experience before August 20 of 2011? 21 Well, I actually retired twice before then. Α. I retired from the Dallas Police Department after 28 22 23 years of service. I worked patrol, narcotics, and ran the task force for the DEA. I left there and I 24 retired from DPD in 2005, and I went to an IT

- Q. In that experience prior to 2011, did you have experience working with cellular phones and their manners of routing?
- A. Yes. When I was assigned to the Drug Enforcement Administration, I ran a task force, and that team that I led, we did wiretaps on cellular telephones involving drug-trafficking from Mexico into the United States and following the money back to Mexico.
- Q. So you're familiar, then, with the manner in which cellphones, I guess you could say, historically have routed their calls from one device to another?
 - A. That's correct.
- Q. And you had described a changeover from Metro PCS to T-Mobile in around 2013. Were there any adaptations in technology in the way cellphones were routed between units, 2011 to current?
- A. Yes. Well, Metro PCS was on a different network, the CDMA network, which was a totally different network than the current network it's on now, which is a GSM network. That's a little bit technical, and I'm not an engineer or anything, but it was two different types of networks.

- Q. Can you describe the network that's currently in place at T-Mobile?
- A. T-Mobile uses the GSM network. That is the most prevalent network used in the cellular telephone business now. It's just a different type of way. There is a switching station involved. The switching stations for T-Mobile are all over the United States, but the switching station has no bearing on where a particular phone was. The switching station is the computer that creates the call detail records with the cell site information to show where a particular phone was during a specific call being made or received by the T-Mobile customer.
- Q. If you could describe for the jury, then, the process that happens currently when a T-Mobile subscriber uses his or her cellphone to call another cellphone.
- A. It's going to be very basic, because I'm not an engineer. When you use your cellphone to either make a call or receive a call, you hit the "send" button. A signal, a radio wave, will go from your phone and usually goes to the nearest tower from where the phone is located during the duration of the call.

In this day and age, in 2018, 2017, most calls are what are called Wi-Fi calls, and it's done automatically using an LTE cell site. You hear things like 3G, 4G. Now you're hearing about 5G. Smartphones now, when you use your cellphone, it will automatically either direct your call to an LTE site or a conventional tower. Most cellphone companies, especially T-Mobile now and the other two larger companies, use LTE sites. They're more prevalent now than the conventional towers.

- Q. So explain the role of the switch in relationship to the towers.
- A. The switching station is the computer that facilitates the hold process of the call. The call detail records for T-Mobile subscribers, T-Mobile customers that use our network, and other companies that use our network, that information is stored on the switching station that handled the incident, the phone calls that are made or received by the T-Mobile customers; or a partner, like Ultra or Boost, who also use our particular network.

When a legal demand comes into T-Mobile in the form of a search warrant, a court order, or a subpoena from a government entity, from the police,

DA's office, FBI, Homeland Security, DEA, that legal demand is processed by a person that works in the law enforcement relations section of the subpoena compliance unit for T-Mobile. We have three offices. One is in New Jersey, one is in Pennsylvania, and one is in Richardson, and that's the office that I work in.

We also get legal demands from insurance companies. We get legal demands from nongovernmental entities, and we process those legal demands also. And that information is sent back to the requester, specifically responding to the legal demand, what is requested, and the date range that is requested if the information is still available.

- Q. Without the switch playing its role, does the call go from one phone to another?
- A. The switch is a very important part of the actual whole function. The switch is the computer that creates the call detail records, but it's also where the information is actually stored. It's a computer. We have them all over the country.

 T-Mobile is nationwide, and we have switches all over the country, in almost all 50 states. Not all 50 states have a switch in their particular area.
 - Q. Are you aware of any switch that exists in

A. Yes, sir.

- Q. And are you aware with the language that's on these documents under the statement "I further state that"?
 - A. Yes.
 - Q. You're familiar with that language?
- A. Yes, that's the standard form that we send back when a certification is actually requested.
- Q. And is that true and correct with relation to the records that you have previously reviewed that we're representing as Exhibit 5?
 - A. That's correct.
- Q. I'm going to show you page 2. And just so we know, who is Peggy Shelley?
- A. Peggy Shelley is a specialist, a subpoena compliance specialist for T-Mobile. She works in the Richardson office. I know her personally. I've worked with her before. And she processed the legal demand and she created the actual sheet, the previous sheet that you just saw.
- Q. With regard to these records, you've also verified that these are the true and correct records?
- A. That's correct. Whenever I'm assigned to a specific case, I'm usually sent the T-Mobile phone number that was actually involved in the case. And what I will do is, I will go into our system and I will pull the records to make sure that the records that I received are the same records that we sent.

- Q. These records I'm showing you -- let's start with talking about the columns and what they mean. There is obviously a date and a time column. Can you describe those for us?
- A. Yes, the date is the date of a specific phone call or text message, in this instance. I believe on these records it's phone calls, either incoming phone calls or outgoing phone calls.
 - Q. Is that in Mountain Standard time?
- A. The time zone, it depends on the actual -it's in Mountain. It could be in Mountain Standard or Mountain Daylight Saving time.
- Q. In your review of these specific records, they're in universal time; is that correct?
- A. Universal coordinated time. It's not a time zone. So you'd have to do a conversion to get Mountain Standard Time or Mountain Daylight Time.
- Q. Is this standard in these types of records, to be in the UTC?
- A. Yes. All of our records from the specific time zone. I know in 2018, 2017, and parts of 2016,

- they're all in UTC. And everything going forward will be UTC.
- Q. What is the difference in time between UTC and Mountain Standard?
- A. I have a sheet right here that I made up myself in Mountain Standard Time. You'd have to subtract seven hours from the time stamp on the records themselves to get New Mexico time.
 - Q. That's during standard --
- A. During Mountain Standard Time; that's correct.
- Q. And is it different during Daylight
 Standard Time?
 - A. You have to subtract six hours.
 - Q. So then if you could do some quick math for us, that first one there at the top, can you see it? Can you read it okay?
 - A. Yes, 11/3 of 2018.
 - Q. And the time listed is 001627. Was that, in fact, the -- if you convert it to Mountain Daylight Time, what would that be?
 - A. Well, 11/3 of 2018. Daylight Saving Time started on March 11, 2018, at 2:00 a.m. So that's going to be, in Mountain Standard Time, 11:30. So you'd have to subtract seven hours from that time

 - A. Daylight Saving Time started at 2:00 a.m. on March 11, 2018. I looked it up, yes, sir.
 - O. And when did it end?
 - A. It ended on November 4 of 2018. I'm sorry, yes, it ended on November 4 of 2018. So it's still Daylight Saving Time on that particular date, yes.
 - Q. It's still Daylight Saving Time and you subtract six?
 - A. Six. Yes, I'm sorry.
 - Q. And after the 4th of November, would it be as you stated, you subtract seven?
 - A. Seven, yes.
 - Q. Let's talk about the next column. It says "duration." What measure of time is that in?
 - A. That's seconds. That's how long the call lasted, whether it's an incoming or outgoing call.
 - Q. Call type? What is that?
 - A. The call type, MOC stands for mobile outgoing call, an outgoing call from the T-Mobile number to another phone number.
 - Q. The direction?
 - A. The direction is outgoing. It was an outgoing call.

- A. That's correct. The calling number would be the T-Mobile number that was requested to be searched. The dialed number would be the number that was dialed by the caller. The destination number would be the number that would be the number that was reached by the caller.
 - Q. What is an IMSI and IMEI?
- A. The IMSI is the International Mobile Subscriber Information. That's how we bill the customer for using our network.
 - Q. And the IMEI?
- A. The IMEI is the serial number of the cellphone itself that was used by the customer.
- Q. And I want to direct your attention here to the middle column. It's entitled "switch name." Do you see that there?
 - A. That's correct.
- Q. Is that the switches that you were referring to earlier through which calls must be routed and information is gathered?

- A. That's correct. That's where the information is also stored, and when a legal demand comes into the company, it's a computer; the information that's requested and the date range is actually pulled from that and sent back to the requester.
- Q. These switches here -- or I should say singular switch, because they appear to be all the same; is that correct?
- A. They're all the same on this document, yes, sir.
- Q. And it's identified as TTTAS 005; is that correct?
 - A. That's correct.
 - Q. Where is that switch?
 - A. That switch is in Plano, Texas.
- Q. Moving down, there is a column entitled -two columns entitled, first tower lat, first tower long. What do those refer to?
- A. That would be the exact location of the -in this instance it's an LTE site, because it was a Wi-Fi call that was made. With Smartphones, it automatically will either send you to a conventional tower or an LTE site. LTE site stands for long-term evolution. You hear these things about 2G, 3G, 4G,

- Q. Then following that directly is a first tower address, first tower city, first tower state. Do you see those?

- Q. Describe what those are.
- A. If an individual, an investigator, was trying to map where the phone was in relation to the tower that handled the call, they would actually use that information. The first tower latitude, which is a positive decimal number, and the first tower longitude, which is a negative decimal number, you would put that into whatever software you're using, GoogleMaps, to actually create a map onto where the cell phone was in relation to the tower that handled the call.
- Q. So this would be the tower to which the call and the person placing the call connected first?
 - A. That's correct.
- Q. And so this first call, then, on line 1, dated 11/3/18, at 001627, would have first routed to a tower in Edgewood; is that correct?

- A. That's correct. Edgewood, New Mexico. And that's the closest physical address. The latitude and longitude is the exact location of where that particular LTE site is.
- Q. And that second one, then, would have been routed to a tower in Tijeras?
 - A. That's correct.
 - Q. And the third one is Bernalillo east?
 - A. That's correct.
- Q. And the fourth and remaining in the city of Albuquerque, New Mexico.
 - A. That's correct.
- Q. Go to the final page of Exhibit 5. What is on this page?
- A. This is subscriber information for the phone number that was requested to be searched. That phone number is (505) 819-1806.
- Q. And does it indicate -- so that first section under "subscriber details," what type of information is contained there?
- A. You have the subscriber name, the name of the person, who was a Michael Nissen who opened the account. That was the name given by the customer when they opened the account.
 - Q. And then the device details section, the - first line begins IMSI. What type of information is contained in here?

- A. The IMSI is the International Mobile Subscriber Information. That's also listed on the caller detail records. I'm sorry, I put my finger there. That is how T-Mobile bills the customer for using the service.
- Q. Then down -- there is a number, the IMEI number. Remind us what that is again.
- A. That is the international mobile equipment identifier. That is the unique number for that specific telephone itself. That is made at the factory. That is put on that phone at the factory where the phone was actually made. It's usually underneath the battery in the back of the phone.
- Q. Now, here it lists the final number in the IMEI as 2, and I believe if we go back to page 1, the final number is zero. Do you know why that is?
- A. The call detail records of that final number will always be zero. The other numbers will be the exact same numbers that are in the IMEI number. On the records, the final number is zero. But they'll match -- the rest of the numbers will match everything but that last digit.

3	THE COURT: You may.
4	BY MR. UBALLEZ:
5	Q. I've handed the witness, Your Honor, what's
6	been marked and admitted as United States Exhibit 8.
7	Can you tell us generally what this thing
8	is?
9	A. This is a Galaxy Note, Samsung Galaxy Note
10	5.
11	Q. And you described the IMEI number being the
12	number which identifies a specific device?
13	A. That's correct.
14	Q. And do you see an IMEI number on this
15	device?
16	A. It's usually in the back of the phone. You
17	would have to take the phone apart to do it,
18	underneath the battery.
19	Q. Could you take a quick look at the back and
20	see if we can see that number?
21	A. You'd have to open it up.
22	Q. Just the back of the case.
23	A. There is no number on the back of the case.
24	Q. The back of the case or the phone, my
25	apologies.

1	A. If there is a number on here, it's very,
2	very small and I can't see it. There is a number on
3	the bottom down here.
4	Q. Okay. Can you and that number on the
5	bottom there, does it look the length of an IMEI
6	number?
7	A. It could be, yes, sir.
8	Q. But it's too small for you to see?
9	A. Yes. I have a Samsung phone, myself, but I
10	never take it out of my case to look at the back of 11	it. I usually have the box with my phone, and I have
12	my IMEI number on my box.
13	Q. Is there an indication where an IMEI number
14	might be on a physical device?
15	A. It would also be behind the battery, if you
16	take the battery out of a phone.
17	MR. UBALLEZ: May I retrieve, Exhibit 8,
18	Your Honor?
19	THE COURT: You may.
20	A. But to be honest with you, I can't see it.
21	BY MR. UBALLEZ:
22	Q. So you're describing, then, the subscriber
23	information on page 3 of Exhibit 5?
24	A. That's correct.
25	Q. Under "billing details," what type of

 - Q. Does that include any identifiers for that individual?
 - A. The birth date, 3/8 of 1965.
 - Q. And also a social?
 - A. Social Security number. There is an address, bill address.
 - Q. Why do you keep these items of information?
 - A. That information -- this is a post date account. In other words, a credit check was done so the information was verified. This information is actually entered in when the customer opens the account.
 - Q. And why is that type of information important to keep for T-Mobile?
 - A. Because number one, it's a post paid account. A credit check was done so the information was put on there. We also have prepaid accounts, where a person's identity is not verified because there is no credit check done. They pay as they go. They pay monthly. You pay $40 for 30 days of service, you've got to pay another $40 for the 30 days. If you don't pay, you don't get your phone

1	anymore.
2	Q. So it would be important for this
3	information to be current, then?
4	A. Yes. On this particular account, this is a
5	post pay account. A credit check was done and that
6	information was there and that person pays by the
7	month.
8	Q. So we're absolutely clear, without the
9	switch that you identified in Plano, Texas, these
10	calls made from this number with this subscriber
11	would not have gone to the people, whoever it was,
12	that he was calling?
13	A. That's right. On this particular instance,
14	that switching station was the switching station that
15	facilitated the calls, and the call detailed records
16	that you have in front of you.

1	MR. MKHITARIAN: Thank you, Your Honor.
2	CROSS-EXAMINATION
3	BY MR. MKHITARIAN:
4	Q. Good afternoon, sir.
5	A. Good afternoon sir.
6	Q. How do you pronounce your last name, again?
7	A. Lecesne. It's a New Orleans name.
8	Q. Thank you, Mr. Lecesne, for being here
9	today. I'm going to keep it really short. So you
L O	had talked about earlier how you're not an engineer,
L1	and I'm going to hold you to that.
12	A. Right.
13	Q. So I'll just try to keep it within your 14	knowledge base. So you testified earlier that when
15	you make a phone call, it goes to a switch. Do all
16	phone calls go to a switch?
17	A. When you make or receive a phone call on a
18	T-Mobile network, there is going to be a switch that
19	handles the call. We have switches all over the 20	country. The switch has no bearing on where the 21	phone is. The tower information will tell you where
22	the phone is, but the switching the switching
23	station, which is a computer, facilitates that call.
24	Q. So is it entirely possible to for instance, if you lived in Plano, Texas, and you made a T-Mobile phone call, will that phone call go to that Plano, Texas, switch because it's the nearest one, or is it completely random on where these go?

- A. It's computerized. It could be on a switch in New York City. It could be on a switch in Atlanta. That's the GSM network. There used to be a CDMA network and you had to be -- when you used your phone, which the CDMA network is not working anymore; we discontinued that on T-Mobile in Metro PSC. You would have to use the Dallas switch to make a phone call in Dallas.
- Q. Okay. So based on the current technology, even if there is a switch where you live and you use the Dallas example, so there is a switch in Dallas, you make a phone call from a Dallas number to a Dallas number, that phone call could still go to New York?
- A. It could go to a different switch. But that has no bearing on where the phone is.
- Q. I understand. So the phone call could go to a different switch regardless if there's a switch -- you're making a phone call next door to the switch, it could still go to a different switch.
- A. That's correct. The record would only show what happened. It would not show something that

MR. MYSLIWIEC: Objection, relevance.

THE COURT: Overruled.

BY MR. MKHITARIAN:

- Q. Is it common knowledge that your phone call --
- A. I've seen it happen in many different situations. I've seen phone calls in Dallas on a GSM network that use a switch in California. The switching station is a computer that facilitates the completion of the call.
- Q. So even if you call a local number and there's a local switch, the phone call can go to any switch?
- A. It goes to any switch that's available at that time.
- Q. Does your phone tell you it's going to a different switch when you're actually making the call, or is it something you find out later?
- A. No, sir. You won't find it out unless you get the call detail records. Your phone doesn't tell you that.
 - Q. Oh. Does your phone bill tell you that?

- Q. Is that something that you have to subpoena to find out?
- A. An individual can't subpoena their own records because they get billing records. They'd have to get an attorney. But you could get it with a subpoena. The Government has to have certain types of call detail records with tower information. With the information that you saw on this, on those call detail records, they could only get it with a search warrant.
- Q. So I guess with that in mind, I'll kind of boil it down. So a customer in the regular course of making phone calls and getting bills might not ever find out that his phone call went to a switch somewhere else?

MR. MYSLIWIEC: Objection, relevance.
THE COURT: Overruled.

A. No. I have a T-Mobile phone and I never requested my call detail records to find out which switch handled my calls. I just make my calls. As long as my phone is working right, I'm fine.

BY MR. MKHITARIAN:

Q. If I was a T-Mobile customer, could I call them and say, "Make sure none of my phone calls go to

2	A. No, sir, I don't believe that's possible,

- Q. And describe the things that he said to you during that conversation.
- A. So it was back in November, and again, I don't recall the specific conversation, the specific wording. Mr. Nissen, however, was fairly upset over the traffic stop that Officer Burd initiated on him and wished to complain on Officer Burd.
 - Q. How could you tell that he was upset?
- A. His voice was raised, his tone was aggressive. And again, I don't recall specific words that were exchanged between myself and Mr. Nissen, but it was apparent that Mr. Nissen was upset.

- And during that call -- approximately how 0. long would you say you were on the phone with him? It had to be less than five minutes. Q. And what is your standard procedure for receiving complaints in this manner as the sergeant who takes complaints?  - Q. And been to court yourself?

- A. I did speak to Officer Burd. Afterwards they relayed threats that were given, and I actually pushed out an email warning the whole district as a whole about the threats that were relayed over the phone.
 - O. Describe that email.
- A. The and I was basically a warning email to all the officers stating, again, with the threat of putting -- shooting a pig with a gun, and just to be on the lookout, be a warning; so I put Mr. Nissen's information on the email so in case any other officer had contact with him, just to be aware.
- Q. Is that standard procedure every time you receive a complaint?
 - A. No.
 - Q. Have you heard the term "pig" before?
 - A. Yes.
- Q. And what's your understanding that it refers to?
- A. So besides the obvious fact of the pig, of the animal variety, "pig" is also very common slang to describe a law enforcement officer.

MR. UBALLEZ: Thank you. I pass the witness, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Uballez.

1	Mr. Mkhitarian, do you have
2	cross-examination of Mr. Carroll?
3	MR. MKHITARIAN: Thank you, Your Honor.
4	THE COURT: Mr. Mkhitarian.
6	BY MR. MKHITARIAN:
7	Q. Good afternoon.
8	A. Hello, sir.
9	Q. You testified earlier that you don't recall
10	being threatened by Mr. Nissen; is that correct?
11	A. Correct.
12	Q. That would be something you would remember,
13	if someone threatened your life; right?
14	A. Yes, sir.
15	Q. So would it be fair to say that he did not
16	threaten you?
17	A. Correct.
18	Q. You also mentioned that when he was calling
19	to complain, he was talking about the Constitution
20	and things like that; is that correct?
21	A. I don't think I said specifically I said
22	Constitution, but I think I said his tone was
23	agitated. I don't specifically recall the exact
24	conversation I had with Mr. Nissen.
25	Q. Okay. So he was would you describe the way he was talking you to as maybe ranting about the stop?

A. It's possible.

- Q. And would you say that -- when you said that you determined it wasn't a real complaint but something suited for the courts, is that because he was arguing about the law and things like that with you over the phone?
 - A. Again, that's possible, yes, sir.
- Q. So based off of him calling you and arguing about the law, you felt that it wasn't a real complaint, and his complaints should be directed for the court process?
 - A. Yes, sir.
- Q. But it is true that he was trying to educate you on what he thought the officer should have done. Did I hear that correctly?
 - A. Possibly, yes, sir.
- Q. And after you concluded the phone call, how long after you concluded the phone call did you talk to Ms. Gurule and Officer Burd?
- A. Probably within -- it had to have been within 10 to 15 minutes. It wasn't a long period of time.
 - Q. Okay. And at that time did you -- within

 - Α. After my phone call, no, sir.

MR. MKHITARIAN: I'll pass the witness.

THE COURT: Mr. Mkhitarian.

Mr. Uballez, any redirect of Mr. Carroll?

MR. UBALLEZ: No follow-up.

THE COURT: All right, Mr. Carroll, you may step down.

Mr. Uballez, is there any reason that Mr. Carroll cannot be excused from the proceedings?

MR. UBALLEZ: No, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Mr. Mkhitarian, can Mr. Carroll be excused?

MR. MKHITARIAN: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. You're excused from 1 the proceedings. Thank you for your testimony. 2 Thank you, Your Honor. THE WITNESS: 3 THE COURT: All right. Does the Government 4 have its next witness or evidence? 5 MR. MYSLIWIEC: Yes, Your Honor.  A. That is the main number that comes in, and

1 MR. MYSLIWIEC: Your Honor, may the record 2 please reflect that the witness has identified the 3 defendant? 4 THE COURT: The record will so reflect. 5 BY MR. MYSLIWIEC: Can you tell us if you recall what day you 6 7 had that phone call with him on? 8 Without looking at notes, no. I don't remember the exact date. 9 10 If I showed you on this screen a call record -- we're going to plug this computer in. 11 Do you see these calls on November 26 of 2018 and then 12 13 November 27 of 2018? 14 Α. Yes. 15 Does that refresh your recollection as to 0. 16 when you actually talked to Mr. Nissen? 17 Α. I talked to him on -- I would say there was 18 one day that I talked to him, and then he called the 19 next day, also, but I did not speak with him. 20 Q. Do you think it was the 26th of November? 21 Probably. It was in the morning. Α. 22 Q. And at least reasonably near, in terms of 23 the jury instruction, reasonably around November 26, 24 2018?

Definitely.

- Could you describe to the jury how that phone call went?
- I answer in my usual way and I ask if there Α. is anything I can do for whoever is calling. And the gentlemen said that he needed to speak to a supervisor. And when I started asking him what it was he needed to speak to, he became -- his voice got very angry. He got very loud. He proceeded to tell me that if -- you know, he would just come down to the office and shoot me in my fucking face.
- When you told him you needed more information, were you being genuine with him?
- Definitely. Because we have a chain of Α. command where it can be about an officer. Each officer has a sergeant, which follows up another chain of command. So it's just a procedure on who we put the phone call to.
- What information would you need -- if I called you and said, "I want to complain about a traffic stop that happened to me a little while ago," what would you need from me to know which supervisor to route me to?
- The person's name that was stopped, the area that they were stopped in, depending if it was Albuquerque, Cuba, Los Lunas, East Mountains.

1	Q. And is that the type of information you
2	attempted to get from this caller on the 26th of
3	November, 2018, who you now know to be Michael
4	Nissen?
5	A. Yes.
6	Q. Like I said, I'll just ask again, were you
7	being genuine in trying to get that info to attempt
8	to help him?
9	A. Yes, because I was not familiar who he was,
10	so I just needed his name.
11	Q. Could you describe to me how long it took
12	between you asking that question trying to help him
13	and this escalation of his voice that you described?
14	A. I would say I didn't even get out of him
15	where the location of the traffic stop was, so it was
16	a very short period of time.
17	Q. Would you describe the escalation of his
18	volume and his voice as gradual or sudden?
19	A. It escalated very quickly.
20	Q. And I don't remember exactly the words that
21	you used, but do you remember exactly the words that
22	Mr. Nissen used to say things that you considered a
23	threat?

1	Q. And was there anything that he said that
2	made you believe that he was joking?
3	A. No.
4	Q. Was there anything that he said that made
5	you believe that he was being figurative or not
6	serious?
7	A. I took it completely serious, and proceeded
8	to go get someone else to talk to him.
9	Q. Do you go get someone else to talk to every 10	caller who has a complaint about police action?
11	A. No.
12	Q. What's the difference between a complaint
13	you receive that you don't go get someone else to
14	finish the phone call and a complaint you receive
15	where you would do that?
16	A. Typically people when you start talking
17	to them and trying to telling them that you're
18	just trying to help them, that they'll come through
19	with the information that you need to be able to find
20	their citation, to find what they're looking for.

- A. No, it was just the intensity of his voice. I mean, he was very angry. I just got the impression that there was no way he was going to listen to anything that I had to say.
- Q. If he in a loud voice had not said the part about shooting you in your face, but was just loud in his complaints about whatever it was, would you have considered that a threat?

 - A. I went to the squad room and Officer Juan Cordova was in the squad room, and I asked him to come handle the phone call.

MR. MKHITARIAN: I guess I could

He should have never asked her to identify the witness and then in the same examination ask if she ever met him.

18	15-minute break and then we're going to go about 25
19	minutes, and I'll try to get you out of here around
20	5:30. But I'd like to keep us moving here so we do
21	what we committed to you and get this case to you in
22	two days.
23	So we're taking actually our second break
24	during the Government's presentation of its case, but
25	I want to remind you of a few things that are especially important. Until the trial is completed, you're not to discuss this case with anyone, whether it's members of your family, people involved in the trial, or anyone else. And that includes your fellow jurors. If anyone approaches you and tries to discuss the trial with you, please let me know about it immediately. Also, you must not read or listen to any news reports of the trial. Don't get on the internet and do any research for purposes of this case. And finally, remember that you must not talk about anything with any person who is involved in the trial, even if it doesn't have anything to do with the trial.

If you need to speak with me, simply give a note to one of the court security officers or Ms. Bevel or Ms. Wright. I'll probably repeat these before we go home tonight, but if I don't at any time in our breaks, do keep them in mind each time we do take a break.

All right. We'll be in recess about 15 minutes, and then we'll work about another 25 and then call it a day.

THE COURT: All right. Anything we need to discuss before we take our break? Anything else I

MR. MYSLIWIEC: I just want to let you know, sir, we have Juan Cordova, who took the second half of that phone call. Then I plan to call Peter Ubbelohde from the FBI. It's already in evidence, but to explain that Exhibit 8, which is the physical phone, is indeed Mr. Nissen's phone and to read the IEMI number off the back so that folks can see that it matches the phone records. It will be very quick.

THE COURT: Anything else, Mr. Gleria?

MR. GLERIA: No, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. We'll be in recess about 15 minutes.

(The Court stood in recess.)

THE COURT: All right. We'll go back on the record. Anything we need to discuss before we bring the jury in, Mr. Mysliwiec, Mr. Uballez?

MR. MYSLIWIEC: No, sir. We just have those two witnesses left. Mr. Uballez is going to do Officer Cordova. I don't know how many minutes, 10 minutes. Peter Ubbelohde from the FBI is just to match up the phone to the unique number we see on the phone records; maybe five minutes on direct.

THE COURT: Anything we need to discuss, Mr. Gleria, Mr. Mkhitarian?

- A. She came into the squad room. Q. I find it incredible that a single phone call can be to a police station or a police dispatcher, or whatever it is, can be partially unrecorded, then recorded. Is that how it is at your station?

I don't know which phones are recorded in the station. I know that dispatch phones are and so forth. But as far as what's recorded at the front desk, just citizens calling in to the main number, I don't know what the issue is with the recording I just know that when I have contact with citizens, I use my own digital recorder and record that.

When you're describing Barbara, you were about to say something about interacting with her 3 every day. I'd like you to complete that? 4

My interaction with Barbara -- she's a very bubbly person. She's always smiling, and that's generally -- that's her character. She's always laughing and just smiling, and she's generally happy. And my interaction that day was different, in that when she came in, I observed that she had a very blank stare about her, she had a very serious demeanor about her, and she was coming in specifically wanting help. She looked to me that she was in distress, that something was going on, different than my normal interaction with her.

Q. What did she tell you?

She stated to me that there was a person on Α. the phone that was becoming combative with her. I don't want to use the word "combative," but that's from -- what I remember, that's what she was saying, that this person was upset, was becoming combative with her, and he threatened to shoot her in the head.

14	Until the trial is completed, you're not to
16	your family, people involved in the trial, or anyone
17	else, and that includes your fellow jurors. So if
18	you go home and you've become good friends, don't get
19	on the internet and talk to each other about this
20	case. Just go home and relax tonight. If anyone
21	approaches you and tries to discuss the trial with
22	you, please let me know about it immediately.
23	Also, you must not read or listen to any
24	news records of the trial. Again, don't get on the
25	internet and do any research for purposes of this

And finally, remember you must not talk about 1 anything with any person who is involved in the 2 trial, even if it doesn't have anything to do with 3 the trial. 4 If you need to speak with me, simply give a 5 note to one of the court security officers, 6 Ms. Bevel, Ms. Wright. 7 I'll try not to repeat these every time we 8 take a break, but we are moving along pretty quickly 9 so I probably will, as we go to different stages, 10 11 keep reminding you of these, so we bring this case in for a good landing.

Let me speak to the attorneys just a moment here to try to decide on scheduling in the morning.

(The following proceedings were held at the bench.)

THE COURT: Do y'all need to do anything before you put on your case, or will you rest before the jury?

> MR. GLERIA: No.

THE COURT: All right. So are these jury instructions in good enough shape? I added an interstate commerce instruction. We didn't have one in there, and the advisory notes to 875 suggested we use one, so I used the one there. Also, there is

I just don't think those 3 paragraphs are very appropriate, so I pulled them If somebody thinks -- I'm afraid if I give it, 4 5 it might cause them to wonder. 6 MR. GLERIA: I agree. 7 MR. MYSLIWIEC: That's usually -- it's an unusual fact pattern to be clean of one defendant. 8 9 MR. MYSLIWIEC: One thing I'd like to do, 10 whenever the Court thinks is the best time, but outside the presence of the jury, is if we could 11 inquire of Mr. Gleria on the record in a way that Mr. 12 13 Nissen can hear to confirm that they've consulted and it's his choice not to testify, even though he has an 14 15 absolute right if he wants to. I don't want him to be unfairly saying that "My lawyer wouldn't let me." 16 17 I want to protect the record. 18 THE COURT: We'll do that maybe first thing 19 in the morning. 20 MR. GLERIA: Thank you. 21 THE COURT: Should I just have them all back here at 8:30, and we'll try to get started at 22 23 8:30, or build in 15 minutes?

up, so maybe 8:45 or 9:00. I will absolutely be here

MR. MYSLIWIEC: I have one thing to bring

at 8:30. 1 THE COURT: What do you think? 8:45 or 2 I don't mind bringing them back at 8:45. And 3 that way --4 MR. MYSLIWIEC: Sure. 5 THE COURT: -- if they have to wait, I'll 6 tell them they have to wait. 7 MR. MYSLIWIEC: My thing is not long. 8 have one thing to bring up. 9 MR. GLERIA: Is there something else? 10 THE COURT: I'll give you a set of jury 11 instructions. Take them home and if you see 12 anything, shoot me an email. Tell me if you have any 13 objections or thoughts or suggestions or anything. 14 But if you'll wait a minute here, we'll try to give 15 you a set before you leave. 16 MR. MYSLIWIEC: Yes, sir. 17 THE COURT: All right. Let me talk to them 18 and get them out of here then. 19 (The following proceedings were held in 20 open court.) 21 THE COURT: I'm going to let you go. And 22 normally I'd bring you back about 8:30, but I think 23 I'm going to have about 15 minutes of work. So if 24 you will be in the jury room at 8:45, that will give

1	me about 15 minutes to work with the lawyers and the
2	parties. And that way, you won't just be waiting.
3	There is a possibility you may have to wait a little
4	bit, but I'm estimating that I need about 15 minutes
5	with them in the morning. So if you'd be in the jury
6	room about 8:45, ready to go. Ms. Wright and
7	Ms. Bevel will have some goodies in there for you, so
8	it won't be wasted time if you come a little early.
9	But try to be there about 8:45, and I'll try to have
10	my work done and ready for you at that time.
11	Thank you for your hard work. Be safe on
12	your travels. It's been cloudy back over there.
13	It's windy. But I guess we've got our afternoon
14	monsoons.
15	All right. Y'all have a good afternoon.
16	Thank you for your hard work.
17	(The jury left the courtroom.)
18	THE COURT: All right. Anything we need to
19	discuss before we take our break? Anything else I
20	can do for you?
21	MR. GLERIA: Yes, Your Honor.
22	THE COURT: Yeah.
23	MR. GLERIA: I would like to leave most of
24	my stuff.
25	THE COURT: You can leave it here.

1	MR. GLERIA: I'll wait for the jury
2	instructions.
3	THE COURT: Everybody is gone. Court
4	security is ready to go home. We're done.
5	MR. MYSLIWIEC: One thing I'll ask, Your
6	Honor, is if the defense wants to do their Rule 29
7	motion tomorrow morning. It's pretty late today.
8	THE COURT: Yes, we'll do it tomorrow, if
9	you want to. If you don't have a motion, we'll take
10	up whatever else. Anything else, Mr. Mysliwiec?
11	MR. MYSLIWIEC: No, sir. Thank you.
12	THE COURT: Anything else, Mr. Gleria?
13	MR. GLERIA: No, Your Honor.
14	THE COURT: All right. Y'all have a good
15	evening. I appreciate your hard work. Would y'all
16	just wait to pick up these copies? We'll hand them
17	to you, so you can take them home with you.
18	Mr. Gleria, would you wait, so we can give
19	you a copy of the jury instructions?
20	MR. GLERIA: I'm waiting.

Good morning, THE COURT: All right. 1 I appreciate everybody making themselves 2 everyone. available to me this morning. Does Mr. Nissen have 3 anything he needs to raise before we bring the jury 4 5 in? MR. MKHITARIAN: No, Your Honor. His 6 family brought him a different shirt today, didn't 7 want him sitting in black today. I would just ask 8 that he be allowed to change into that shirt. 9 THE COURT: All right. So when the jury 10 comes in, Mr. Nissen will rest? 11 MR. GLERIA: Yes, Your Honor. 12 MR. MKHITARIAN: Yes, Your Honor. 13 THE COURT: All right. Well, let's talk 14 about jury instructions. What -- does anybody have 15 The ones that were passed out to you should 16 have had a different cover sheet. It should have 17 said "Court's second proposed jury instructions." 18 Are there any changes to them? 19 MR. GLERIA: We have the Court's first. 20 It says first, but it's THE COURT: 21 It just didn't have the right actually the second. 22 cover sheet on it. So the ones that you got last 23 night, they say first, but it should say second, 24 because, remember, you got one in the morning. 25

1	MR. GLERIA: On the internet?
2	THE COURT: Well, we handed it to you when
3	you came in in the morning yesterday, so that was the
4	first set. And then we revised it. Remember, we
5	talked about taking out the expert?
6	MR. GLERIA: Yes, Your Honor.
7	THE COURT: So we made changes throughout
8	the day. So at the end of the day, this is what I
9	handed out. So it says Court's first, but it
10	actually reflects that we took out some paragraphs
11	of, don't consider the guilt of other people, things
12	like that. We changed "police: We made changes
13	throughout the day, so this was the one that was
14	resolved. It will be clear on the CM/ECF. But the
15	one you got do you have any changes,
16	Mr. Mysliwiec?
17	MR. MYSLIWIEC: No, everything we had has
18	already been incorporated. Thank you.
19	THE COURT: How about you, Mr. Gleria? Do
20	you have any changes? Mr. Mkhitarian, do you have
21	any changes to the set that was handed out last
22	night?
23	MR. MKHITARIAN: No, Your Honor.
24	THE COURT: All right. So other than the
25	cover sheet, that will be the jury instructions I give. Does anybody need to make any -- besides suggestions, comments, criticism, anybody need to make any objections for the record?

MR. MYSLIWIEC: I don't know if I have objections, but the two things I wanted -- three things I wanted to talk about. One was if the defense wanted to make a Rule 29 motion, I figure before the jury gets lined up, this may be the best time to do that, so the jury doesn't have to wait on us doing that at the bench in some less ideal way.

The next thing is, I would like for the Court to inquire on the record of counsel about Wr. Nissen's knowing and voluntary decision not to

THE COURT: All right.

MR. MYSLIWIEC: Then the third thing is, whenever the Court wants to hear about it, I'd like to preview some concerns that I have based on lines of questioning that the defense has pursued during the presentation of evidence yesterday that I hope won't mature into illegal arguments contrary to the judge's instruction to be made during closing argument.

THE COURT: All right. Well, anything you want to do on a Rule 29, or do you want to go respect to that, Your Honor, with them recognizing that it is an actual, legitimate political stance that they commonly deal with, and Mr. Nissen calling to complain, citing various laws, his First Amendment, Second Amendment, Fourth Amendment rights that were violated, him exaggerating and ranting about the consequences regarding future violations, you know, threats made in regard to future violations, Your Honor, not unlike threats that are made every day: If you trespass on my property, If you break into my house, you you'll be shot. No specific person was mentioned. It was conditioned on future rights being violated, and I would argue that my previous motion entered in the Court's records that we have referred to decide today should at least dismiss Count 1, that being for the reason of being a political argument, not serious, conditioned on future actions, and clearly exaggerated. So I would renew that motion for at least Count 1, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Mr. Mkhitarian.

Mr. Mysliwiec, do you have a response to the Rule 29 motion?

MR. MYSLIWIEC: We do, Your Honor. And I'll try to make it brief, because I know the Court has been paying close attention to the evidence and knows the law very well.

The first element, knowingly transmitted a communication containing a threat to injure the person of another. Mr. Nissen dialed the phone. That's an intentional act. We have the phone records in that show all the calls to New Mexico State Police were outgoing calls from Mr. Nissen's phone. We have the evidence that that was indeed Mr. Nissen's phone, that it was his phone number, that the unique factory identifier for the phone showed that it was his. So knowingly transmitted communication. The jury can reasonably find that and indeed should.

Containing a threat to injure the person of

"I'm going to put a bullet in that fucking I'm going to pull out my revolver and pig's head. put that motherfucker drop dead, and I'm going to shoot you in the fucking face," are all true threats. We know they're true threats because we look at the Court's instruction for what a true threat is. a serious statement expressing intent to instill fear which, under the circumstances, would cause apprehension in a reasonable person as distinguished from mere political argument, idle talk, exaggeration, or something said in a joking manner. There is nothing joking or idle about the threats by an armed man to shoot people in the face or put bullets in their head. He may or may not subjectively have intended to do those things, but on their face, they're a true threat that goes to the jury.

Second element. Mr. Nissen transmitted the communication with the intent to make a threat or with knowledge that the communication will be viewed as a threat. In reverse order, knowledge means something done voluntarily and intentionally, not by accident or mistake. This is not a miscommunication case. This is not a case like Elonis where someone posted song lyrics that a recipient took in a threatening manner but may or may not have been intended that way. These statements were conveyed directly, and Mr. Nissen conveyed them knowing that any reasonable person who heard them would take them as a threat.

Additionally, he subjectively intended them When you look at the evidence in this as a threat. case, Mr. Nissen was upset that he had been traffic-stopped. He was upset that he had been written a citation. He was upset that he had a court date as a result of having been written a citation. And so the only motive that makes sense for him to have made these threats is in response to that police action, and in an attempt to avoid the legal consequences that he thought he shouldn't be subject to, because he believes State Police don't have any right to write him tickets or haul him into court. He was very upset, you heard, on the recorded call with Juan Cordova, Exhibit 4, that he had a court date, and he was very upset that he felt that he would have to go to court and prove his innocence, when he didn't think the guy had the right to draft him a ticket in the first place. So that goes to the jury, as well.

Third, that a communication was transmitted

We have the testimony of in interstate commerce. Kenneth Lecesne from T-Mobile matching up the phone to the phone numbers, to the phone call log, to show that each of the calls in question -- the second call to Victoria Gurule on November 24 and the call to Barbara Beuzekom that later got transferred to Juan Cordova on November 26 of 2018 -- both went through switch Tango Tango Tango Alpha Sierra 005, which is in Plano, Texas. You have Kenneth LeCesne's testimony that the calls could not have been completed or transmitted without the switch, and therefore, that each of those calls went from New Mexico to the switch in Plano, Texas, back to New Mexico to be received by Victoria on November 2 and Barbara on November 26. And that's enough to go to the jury on the third element for each of the two counts.

So I don't want to take up the Court's time. The Court is going to hear a longer version of all this in closing arguments, too. But subject to the Court's questions, that's why I think the defendant's Rule 29 motion must fail as to each of the two counts.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you,

Mr. Mysliwiec.

24

Mr. Mkhitarian, do you have anything further on the Rule 29?

MR. MKHITARIAN: No, Your Honor, nothing outside of the motion that's already been filed.

THE COURT: Well, I will try to give you orders, opinions on those two motions. We left them for this moment in this trial. I don't know this area of the law extremely well, but I think the pattern instructions reflect what the Tenth Circuit has done in this area, that the jury gets to decide whether the talk, the speech, was political argument or it was something else. And that's the way we have the jury instructions written, and I think they reflect the Tenth Circuit law on this.

I think if the evidence were all one way in this case, that it was all political argument, that I could grant a directed verdict. But I think the evidence taken in the light most favorable to the United States, which is what I have to do at the Rule 29 stage, there is evidence that some of it was not political speech and that it was more than political speech, but it was — there is evidence that it was a threat, and that he believed it to be a threat, and that the officers took it as a threat.

So I think there is evidence that the jury

Mr. Nissen is guilty of the crimes charged. So I'm not going to take it away from the jury. I'm going to submit it to the jury. I'm going to take, in a calmer moment, when we're not in the middle of a trial and look a little bit at the law so I understand this area a little better. But I think the Tenth Circuit pattern instructions that we're submitting do reflect accurately the law as I understand it, and that I should not take this away from the jury.

So I'll not grant the Rule 29 motions and at a little bit calmer time, I'll try to issue opinions and orders that reflect more fully what I think the law is on this issue.

All right. Mr. Nissen, I think this is the colloquy that all the lawyers need me to have with you. You understand that in the United States, you have a right to take the stand and testify in your own defense. You understand that?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: All right. And that's a decision you make. It's not a decision Mr. Gleria makes. It's not a decision Mr. Mkhitarian makes. It's certainly not a decision the Government makes, one of which I definitely timely objected to, but the 24 witness was able to answer the question upon the overruling of my objection. And the other one I think I objected to, but I'm not sure.

The first is: We know that the law does not require that anybody know or expect that their communication crossed state lines. That is simply not the law in this Circuit. We have to prove that the communication did cross state lines, and we did. And if the Court looks at instruction 9, the knowingly mens rea is not applied to the interstate commerce element. And so I don't want to hear during closing argument any illegal statement that defendant should be found not guilty because he didn't know that the communication crossed state lines or that he didn't intend for the communication to cross state lines or that he didn't expect the communication to cross state lines.

The defense has a lot of leeway in arguing what elements were proven by the facts that were presented and the evidence that was adduced at the case. But what the law requires is not a he-said-she-said element subject to argument, and the Court's instructions on what the Constitution demands and what the law prohibits and what the law allows is not subject to argument of the parties. It is the truth. It is the exclusive province of the judiciary to determine what the law is.

So that's one illegal form of argument I would prefer not to hear, and I'd like the Court to ask that it not happen.

THE COURT: Well, let's hear anybody -- are you doing closing, Mr. Mkhitarian?

MR. MKHITARIAN: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Do you intend to make any argument along the lines Mr. Mysliwiec is concerned about?

MR. MKHITARIAN: I was going to mention it briefly. It wasn't going to be the focus of my closing, and I guess my response to that would be that, Your Honor, I think that the instructions are clear. I agree with the United States that it doesn't require an intent element. I don't think it prohibits me from arguing that Mr. Nissen had no idea that it was going to cross interstate lines. If they follow the instruction and they convict him based off of the instructions, and I'm sure Mr. Mysliwiec will tell them Mr. Nissen doesn't have to know it goes across state lines, but I don't necessarily think it prohibits me from arguing that there is no way he could have known that it was going to do that.

The T-Mobile expert stated that the only

way you could find out that it even does is when a subpoena is filed and you get the actual switch information back. So I think it's clear that -- I mean, I, for one, didn't know that it does that, and it's probably safe to say that Mr. Nissen didn't know It's a statement of fact. So whether or not that. that's an element in the case -- I mean, there's tons of things that are not elements in the case that we're going to argue: Whether it's political speech, whether -- political speech is not defined. know, rants, exaggerations are not defined. But I don't think it prohibits Mr. Nissen from touching on them and moving on. I would keep it as a factual assertion that -- based on what the T-Mobile person already testified to, and then I'm going to move on. I'm not going to make it the focus of my closing argument, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Would you agree that you should not say that the jury should not find him -- should find him not guilty because he did not know that it would cross interstate lines?

MR. MKHITARIAN: I will not make that statement. I will say that Mr. Nissen did not even know it was going across state lines.

THE COURT: I think that's where I'd draw

MR. MKHITARIAN: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Don't put me in a situation.

Just be careful about me. Don't put me in a situation where I have to correct what you argue. I don't want to do that. You don't want me to do that.

MR. MKHITARIAN: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: So if you cross the line and say, "Find him not guilty," or, "He's not guilty of the crime because he didn't know that element," then I might have to correct the record.

MR. MKHITARIAN: I will not instruct them to find him not guilty.

THE COURT: Can you live with that line,
Mr. Mysliwiec? And then that gives you full rein to show them the jury instructions and emphasize that he doesn't have to know that.

MR. MYSLIWIEC: So it's the position of the United States that there is no proper purpose for which the defense would mention at all that the defendant didn't know that the phone call crossed state lines, leaving only improper purposes for him to mention it. But if the Court's question is, can I live with it, yes, sir, I can.

THE COURT: All right. Let's draw the line

there. Just be careful. Don't get me in a situation where I have to correct something you say.

MR. MKHITARIAN: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Keep it factual. What's the next, Mr. Mysliwiec?

MR. MYSLIWIEC: The second thing is, mostly Mr. Gleria pursued lines of questioning related to whether acts were taken to carry out the threat. He asked a lot of witnesses yesterday, "He wasn't even there in the room with you, it was a phone call."

As the Court can see in the Court's instruction 9, the threat is the crime. There is a specific line at the end of the true threat definition that informs us correctly that it is not required that he intend to carry out the threat or act to carry out the threat. And so it's the position of the United States that there is no proper purpose for mentioning the arguably true fact that the defendant did not commit attempted murder by acting to carry out these murder threats. It is not -- there is no proper purpose in this threat trial for which the jury is instructed only to consider the charges before them to point out that the defendant did not, in fact, murder anyone, because it was the threat to murder that is the crime

And so despite the questions being allowed yesterday about all the different ways and at all the different times the defendant did not murder anyone or did not take actions that we can prove towards murdering anyone, I don't think it would be proper to argue on defendant's behalf that he should be found not guilty because he did not actually murder or attempt to murder anyone, or even really to talk about the lack of acts that the jury instruction makes clear is legally irrelevant.

THE COURT: Your thoughts, Mr. Mkhitarian?

MR. MKHITARIAN: Your Honor, once again,

Mr. Nissen's acts or lack of acts go directly to the seriousness of --

THE COURT: Hold on just a second.

(A discussion was held off the record.)

THE COURT: Go ahead, Mr. Mkhitarian.

MR. MKHITARIAN: Your Honor, Mr. Nissen has a right to present a case to show what the evidence does not show; and what goes directly to the seriousness of a threat, as we talked about in voir dire or anything else, is what acts someone might take, and jurors agreed that, you know, a water balloon versus a gun in someone's hand when a threat was made is a very loose example, but the act of having the water balloon versus a gun changes the serious nature of the threat.

So what Mr. Nissen did or did not do goes directly to the seriousness of or, you know, what the threat actually is. His acts of not being aggressive during a traffic stop, his acts of not pulling out a gun, his acts of being compliant, things of those nature, go directly to how seriously the threat should be taken. So I don't agree that his abilities to carry out the threat -- while in the jury instructions, I agree, it is the jury instruction, and the United States is right that to find him guilty, his ability to carry it out is not relevant, but it is relevant to the seriousness of the threat, and we should be allowed to argue that where Mr. Nissen was, what he did or did not do, is relevant to whether or not the threat should have been taken seriously at all.

THE COURT: All right. Anything further on that, Mr. Mysliwiec?

MR. MYSLIWIEC: To say that the threat is not serious because it was not accompanied by acts is directly contrary to the Court's instruction, and counsel is not at liberty to quibble at this stage about what the law is. That is the exclusive province of the judiciary. The Court's instructions are clear. The defendant has not lodged objections to instruction 9. And to argue contrary to it, to say that one of the elements is not met because acts that are explicitly not required are not present, would be an improper argument meant to confuse the jury and to request that they make a determination in the defendant's favor that is contrary to the clear law.

THE COURT: Well, I think I have given both sides a fair amount of leeway in this case to try to put in context the statements so that the jury can have a good sense of the context in which Mr. Nissen made his statements. We've had a robust discussion of the traffic stop. Nothing really was kept out about the traffic stop. So I think we've set the context.

I'm not inclined to clip your wings,

Mr. Mkhitarian, about what didn't occur, because I think some things that didn't occur can go to context. But again, just be careful in your argument not to make a statement about the law that I would have to correct. The fact you're pointing out things know, the intent element in the second element. So I do think that some leeway — these are closing arguments, after all, and I think to give you an opportunity to tell the jury, in that second element, Mr. Nissen transmitted the communication with the intent to make a threat, I think I need to give you some leeway, but just don't get me in a position where I have to correct any legal statement you make. So don't tell the jury that because he didn't commit any violent acts or something like that, you've got to find him not guilty, that that's not a threat. Okay?

MR. MKHITARIAN: To be clear, Your Honor, what I would be arguing would be that he intended to state a political position; that he intended to notify them of the consequences of violating his rights. But I would never tell them that because he didn't have a gun, they should find him not quilty.

don't want to correct your closing. I never like to do that. And you don't want me to do it, either. It's just not a good moment. So I'll give you a lot of leeway to make your closing argument, because I do think it's a contextual issue. But just be careful with the law so that I don't have to be in a

THE COURT: All right, Mr. Mysliwiec. Do you have a closing argument on behalf of the Government?

SANTA FE OFFICE 119 East Marcy, Suite 110 Santa Fe, NM 87501 (505) 989-4949 FAX (505) 820-6349

MR. MYSLIWIEC: I do, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Mr. Mysliwiec.

MR. MYSLIWIEC: Thank you.

Ladies and gentlemen, thank you very much for paying close attention during voir dire, for expounding honestly and openly, for paying attention during the presentation of evidence yesterday, and hopefully for paying attention. I'll try not to take up too much of your time now in my closing argument.

This is my opportunity to go over the evidence we heard and saw yesterday, compare it to the Court's instruction that your oath requires you to follow on what the law is, so that you can be prepared to go back there and discuss for as long as you need whether Michael Nissen is guilty or not guilty as to each of Count 1 and Count 2.

Alex and I have tried to be precise in presenting the evidence to you. We got it done in one day. And now I think you're going to have everything you need to determine that on November 2 Michael Nissen threatened to injure Jordan Burd in interstate commerce, and then on November 26, also of 2018, that he threatened to injure Barbara Beuzekom in interstate commerce.

The defense has done a good job of trying to focus you on things that I don't need to prove to you. Mr. Gleria and Mr. Mkhitarian have worked very diligently to make sure that you know that the defendant didn't actually murder Officer Burd or Barbara Beuzekom. They have pointed out several phone calls in which he didn't threaten to kill anyone. They have pointed out parts of phone calls in which he threatened to kill people that, in those parts, he wasn't threatening anyone. They have done their job well.

But what I want to take just a few moments for is to go over what the United States does have to prove for you. The defendant is charged with two counts of the same offense, and the elements are the same for each. On your screen you should see instruction 9. There are three elements, and then there is an explanatory paragraph about what a threat means in the law as instructed by Judge Browning. I hope it doesn't bother anyone, but I want to go through these elements in reverse order.

Element 3 is that the communication was transmitted in interstate commerce. Interstate commerce is defined in the context of the law in instruction 11. Instruction 11 tells us that interstate commerce includes communication or travel between one state and another. There can be no reasonable doubt that that happened in each of the two counts here. Exhibit 5, which you'll have to review, is the phone records that show that the three calls to Victoria Gurule on November 2, 2018, and the phone call to Barbara Beuzekom on November 26, 2018, all went through the T-Mobile system through switch TTTAS 005. And those records, as well as the testimony of Kenneth Lecesne yesterday, told you that switch TTTAS 005 is in Plano, Texas. Kenneth Lecesne, you recall, testified that the phone call could not happen without the switch, and that the phone calls that he was asked about that match up the three calls to Victoria Gurule and that match up to the phone call to Barbara Beuzekom on November 26 all went through that switch in Plano, Texas.

You have Michael Nissen's phone, which is Exhibit 8. And on that phone, it's faint, and so you may want to rely on the jurors among you who have the sharper eyesight, like Peter Ubbelohde. But they will be able to point out to anyone who, like me, is not great at reading small numbers, that on the bottom right of the back of the case you have the factory stamped number that matches the billing record that you see in Exhibit 5 and that matches the call log that you see in Exhibit 5, except that as Kenneth Lecesne explained yesterday, the last digit in the call log is always zero. So the last digit in the subscriber record and on the physical phone is going to end in 112, and on the call log it's going to end in 110. That's just how T-Mobile prints their call logs. Please don't be confused by that.

So we know that these phone calls could not have happened but for the switch. We know the switch is in Plano, Texas. We know these phone calls went to Plano, Texas. And that's true even though the defendant was in New Mexico and even though the person receiving his calls was in New Mexico. That satisfies the law. Count 3 is done, or element 3 is done.

Element two is that the defendant transmitted the communication with the intent to make a threat or with knowledge that the communication would be viewed as a threat. The judge has defined knowledge for you. It's instruction 10. Instruction 10 tells us that knowledge within the context of the law in this case is something done voluntarily and intentionally, not by mistake or accident. The defendant telling Victoria Gurule that he would put a bullet in Jordan Burd's head was not accident. That was not mistake. When he said he would pull out his revolver and drop Jordan Burd dead, that was not a mistake. He said that on purpose. The defendant telling Barbara Beuzekom that he would shoot her in her face was not a mistake. It was not an accident. This is not a case about misunderstood communications or communications that could be reasonably taken multiple ways. The defendant knew that those words would be taken as threat.

And additionally, even though element 2 requires that you only find one or the other, you also have all the information you need to know that the defendant personally intended those words to be taken as a threat. How do we know that? We know that because Michael Nissen is a man who is desperate to be taken seriously. He calls people up to lecture them about his fantasy of what the Constitution means. He instructs people that they need to go to someone's Twitter account or to Google some topic to realize that he is secretly a legal genius and their entire profession is a lie and actually the New Mexico State Police doesn't have the authority to pull anyone over.

When he makes these threats, it is not because he wants to be perceived as a joke. It is because he wants to be taken seriously. He doesn't want his car towed. He doesn't want to walk home, and so he will sign Jordan Burd's citation, but then he calls to complain about it three times within about an hour to Victoria Gurule and then again on November 26 to Barbara Beuzekom. And in those calls there is no humor, there is no fun. There is only A joke is not going to get the police to blood lust. back off. A joke is not going to get him out of his He needs them to believe that if they court date. continue to interact with him, if they make him go to court and prove his innocence, like he complained to Juan Cordova, he may put a bullet in Jordan Burd or another friend of theirs' head.

First things last, we get to element 1.

The defendant knowingly transmitted a communication containing a threat to injure the person of another.

The defendant knew he dialed the New Mexico State

Police those multiple times that are shown in the call log in Exhibit 5. There is no reason in the evidence to believe that those were a misdial or that it was in his pocket when he sat down and he called dispatch by mistake. Those calls were made intentionally. So the knowingly making the communication is satisfied.

So the last remaining thing we have to talk about is the second part of the first element, containing a threat to injure the person of another. A threat is defined within this instruction itself within the meaning of the law and it says right there in instruction 9, if you scroll down a bit, Alex, "A threat is a serious statement expressing intent to instill fear which, under the circumstances, would cause apprehension in a reasonable person as distinguished from mere political argument, idle talk, exaggeration, or something said in a joking manner."

It is not necessary that Mr. Nissen intended to carry out the threat or had the ability to carry out the threat, even though we know that he was armed and he does possess that shotgun that's on the table now.

If we bring up the transcript, that's 2-A, this is not a case about profanity. This is not a case about disliking police even to the point of calling them pigs. This is not a case about complaining about a false arrest on some petty proof of insurance violation. This is a case about a man who told a dispatcher that if any cop pulled him over while driving, he would put a bullet in that cop's head, that he would pull out a revolver and drop that cop dead; who told a civilian administrative employee who didn't do what he wanted fast enough that he would therefore shoot her in her face.

There was some figurative language in the phone call. We met Officer Burd. He's a human. He's not a swine. So calling him a pig is not literal. And I don't think anyone believes that Officer Burd ever had sex with his own mother. Those statements are not why we're here. This is not a profanity case. This is not a case of disrespect of cop. Nor is exaggerated language a proper way to describe these threats.

One of the words we have to describe a very exaggerated statement in the English language is hyperbole. And hyperbole, like many words in the English language, has definition. I took the liberty of putting into evidence several different definitions of hyperbole. That's Exhibit 6. A figure of speech in which exaggeration is used for emphasis or effect, as in, "I could sleep for a year," or, "This book weighs a ton."

Another example of hyperbole comes from -
I don't know if any of you are familiar with Weird Al

Yankovic. He's a comedian. This is a song about how he's not upset that he has broken up with his ex-girlfriend, and in this song Weird Al Yankovic says, "I would rather jump naked on a huge pile of thumb tacks or stick my nostrils together with crazy glue." He said, "I would rather dive into a swimming pool filled with double-edged razor blades" than spend one more minute with his ex-girlfriend. Statements not intended to be taken seriously. Statements intended as a joke. You can think Weird Al's funny or not, but he's clearly trying to be "I'm going to put a bullet in that fucking pig's head. I'm going to pull out my revolver and put that motherfucker drop dead. I'm going to shoot you in your fucking face," are not statements that are intended be funny. They are intended to be taken seriously. They are intended as threats.

Threats, true threats, are not protected by the First Amendment. We all work hard here to guard our constitutional rights, no one harder than Judge Browning. And he has given you the instruction you see in instruction 9 defining a true threat. The things that are protected by the First Amendment are therefore not a crime. Mere political talk, idle talk, joking talk, talk not intended to be taken seriously. Those things are protected even if they're offensive, even if I like police officers but you call them names, or vice versa. That is not what this case is about. This case is about true threats intended to be taken as threats.

Even if Mr. Nissen were correct that Officer Burd violated his rights, even if Officer

Burd had arrested Mr. Nissen for failure to show paper proof of insurance and only having proof of updated insurance on his phone when the car was insured, the answer still is not to threaten to put a bullet in his head.

But Burd didn't violate his rights. You heard from Officer Burd. He was questioned about this. He testified he didn't tow the car, even though his department said he had the authority to do it because it wasn't registered, updated, and it didn't have insurance; that he didn't arrest Nissen even when the defendant refused originally to sign a citation, and that he gave the shotgun back even though he didn't feel safe to do so because he thought he didn't have the right to take a man's property if he wasn't going to arrest him, which he explained he had already decided he wasn't going to do even though he could have.

Officer Burd figuratively bent over backwards to respect Mr. Nissen's rights and in return, Mr. Nissen threatens to shoot him in the head.

The State Police were reasonable to take these threats seriously. They were reasonable to email out bulletins warning patrol officers that this armed man was on the road who had threatened Officer Burd. They were reasonable to put up posters warning anyone at the office about this fellow and his threats and the fact that he was armed, and Mr. Nissen wanted them to take him seriously. Their reaction was not a mistake or accident. He knew that they would take it seriously when he said the things he said the way he said them.

And don't take my word for it. You are going to be able to listen to these phone calls to Victoria Gurule as many times as you need to to be firmly convinced that the defendant, beyond any reasonable doubt, made these threats in interstate commerce, knowing they would be taken as threats intending that they would be taken as threats. And that's why you have all the evidence you need to find beyond any reasonable doubt that on November 2, 2018, Mr. Nissen, while he was in the district of New Mexico, threatened to injure Jordan Burd in a way that affected interstate commerce by going through Plano, Texas; and that on November 26, he threatened to kill Barbara Beuzekom while he was in New Mexico in a way that affected interstate commerce by that call being routed through Plano, Texas. That's all you need to write guilty as to Count 1 and guilty as to Count 2, and that's what I ask you to do. Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Mysliwiec.

Mr. Mkhitarian, do you have a closing argument on behalf of Mr. Nissen?

MR. MKHITARIAN: I do, Your Honor.

MR. MKHITARIAN: Counsel. Thank you very much for being here today. I'm sure when all of you woke up and drove here for jury duty, none of you thought that we'd be talking about First Amendment, free speech, what we can and cannot talk about. And it's probably a surprise to you that we're going to be talking about that today.

So the essential thrust of what's going on is, we're going to be deciding today what speech is limited; when someone crosses a line; when someone's speech is not protected by the First Amendment.

There is a reason why it's the First Amendment.

There is a reason why it was the first thing our Founders thought they should write down and protect.

It's the right to speak, to speak freely. The right to have opinions, to be angry; the right to talk about whatever it is that you want and not be punished by it. That's why they wrote it down first.

Our freedom of speech shall not be abridged in any way. So we're here to decide whether or not Mr. Nissen's political rant should be criminalized. And make no mistake, it is political rant. The officer recognized it's political rant. You do not have to agree with Mr. Nissen's political beliefs. You don't have to agree with how he expresses them, but you do have to agree that he has a right to express his political beliefs.

Now, Mr. Nissen -- he was upset. He was upset about being pulled over. He gets pulled over, and through the officer's own testimony, not for any moving violations, not for speeding, not for failing to maintain his lane, not for driving too slow or failing to use his turn signals. Mr. Nissen was driving completely normal, and he gets pulled over because the officer is fishing for violations on the road, looking for no insurance, looking for no registration. So Mr. Nissen, being a law-abiding citizen that he is, pulls over in a safe manner, pulls over when the officer asks him to, complies with the officer, does as the officer says, makes no aggressive movements, expresses to him his belief that the officer has no authority over him, tells the officer that he had no reason for pulling him over, because he was following all the laws; and the officer himself states there was nothing threatening made during the stop; that Mr. Nissen was completely compliant with all of his demands, so much so that he returns his gun to him and lets him drive off.

Now, Mr. Nissen, upset about this, upset about being pulled over for not making any moving violations, calls dispatch. He calls dispatch to basically rant about his belief that his rights were violated. He says — he uses figurative language basically conditioned on future conduct. "If the police do this, I'm going to do this. If my rights are violated, I'm going to do that."

The statement doesn't name a specific person. It doesn't say, "I'm going to kill Officer Burd." It doesn't say, "I'm going to hurt this person specifically." There was no imminent danger from the statements. They were separated by space and time. Moreover, it was political. He talks about his First Amendment, his Second Amendment, his Fourth Amendment. Not random amendments. He's saying, "My right to free speech was violated. My right to carry a firearm, which was taken away from me during the stop, was violated. My right to be free from illegal searches and seizures, the Fourth Amendment, was violated."

He's not spouting out random amendments here. They're all relevant to what he believed was violated when he was pulled over that day. And he states it in an angry manner, as is his right.

Now, the jury instructions define what a serious threat is, and they specifically exclude political talk and exaggeration. Political talk and exaggeration. We heard from the officer that what Mr. Nissen was saying could be construed as political argument, him trying to show him videos about his politics and his beliefs. There is no question and there's plenty of evidence to show that Mr. Nissen was trying to educate everybody on what he thought the policy and politics of his belief should be. So I don't think there is a question that Mr. Nissen was making a political argument. Whether or not you agree with it is another question, but that's not what we're here to decide.

Now, we move to whether or not Mr. Nissen's political speech is even something that no one believes in. And the officer says that they received special training on these types of people, so much so that they actually have to have a training to sit down and talk to them about how to deal with sovereign citizens, how to deal with people who don't look up to their authority; how people like Mr. Nissen only respect the authority of county elected officials.

This is not some sort of fringe political argument that Mr. Nissen made up in his head. This is people that they get training on. They're seeing it more and more. It's prevalent throughout the country, so much so that they have to have a sit-down with officers and tell them, "This is how you're supposed to deal with it. This is what you might see. This is what's going to happen. There are people like this people who believe this. This is how you should deal with this."

So it's not like Mr. Nissen made this up after he drove away. It was talked about during the traffic stop, it was talked about in the call afterwards, and it was talked about on later occasions when officers called to follow up with what Mr. Nissen was trying to say.

Now, the United States is trying to make some sort of connection that Mr. Nissen didn't have the right to make a statement like that; that it was so outlandish that it should be taken seriously; that this is something that nobody says. But Mr. Nissen's statement is not unlike statements that some of you might have even made, statements that some of you might have even heard said to you. Take this, for example. Has anyone ever heard the statement, "If you trespass onto my property, you will be shot. If you try to break into my house, you will be shot. I will shoot anybody who tries to break into my house at night."

Now, through the same logic that the United States tries to use, this is a true threat. We should be arrested for this. People who have signs posted saying, "You will be shot upon trespassing," those people are making serious threats to everybody in the community. Breaking into somebody's house doesn't allow for someone being shot. Maybe you should ask them to leave. Shooting somebody for coming into your house, that's not appropriate under the United States' analysis of the way threats are made.

So Mr. Nissen is making a statement: "I do not believe that my rights should be violated," and if they do, he makes the exaggerated statement that he might shoot pigs. And once again, this is in the context of an angry rant about a traffic stop that should not be taken seriously.

Now, make no mistake. You will not receive an instruction from the Court saying that New Mexico State Police gets special treatment with regard to the First Amendment. There is no jury instruction that says state police have the right to take certain statements more seriously than the average citizen. There is no instruction that says that you cannot make political talk, political exaggeration, political rants at police. They get treated the same just as the rest of us. If these statements are made to us, the statements are made to police, they should be looked at the same, through the eyes of a There is no elevated seriousness reasonable citizen. for who you make the threat to, and there is no instruction like that. So I'm asking you to look at the statements that Mr. Nissen made in the context of just a regular person, because that's what we're here to talk about.

There are no recorded statements with regard to Officer Bredbach (phonetic). I'm going to ask you to disregard that. It's interesting that when Officer Cordova was initially examined, he said the only thing he could remember was that Officer Bredbach told him that Mr. Nissen was being combative initially. Then after some cross-examination by the United States and some jogging of his memory, he goes, "Oh, by the way, oh, yeah, and he told me that she (sic) was going to shoot him in the face."

That would be something that he would remember immediately. If he was pulled over by Officer Bredbach by saying, "This person is going to shoot me in the face," he wouldn't remember that he was being combative; he would remember a threat to kill an administrator was made. He remembered there at the end checking off the threat-to-a-person box.

All of Mr. Nissen's recorded statements are consistent with him making political rants. He's always talking about his rights. He's always talking about the Constitution. He's always talking about his right to be free from searches and seizures.

He's always talking about the consequences from violating citizens' rights in an exaggerated way and in no way, shape, or form did he ever act on or put any officers in the position to believe that those threats were going to be carried out. Every time officers talk to him in the recorded statements that we have, every time the officers met with him to see what was going on as an instance of the traffic stop, he was completely normal and made no overt or direct threats.

We're all protected by the First Amendment. We're all protected, and we all have the right to make angry, dumb political rants from time to time. And we should not be convicted of a crime for trying to express those beliefs, even though we might not agree with the beliefs that are trying to be expressed. And when a government seeks to crack down on our right to speak, all of our rights to speak, we have to treat these cases with respect. Despite what you might think of what Mr. Nissen's beliefs are or whether they should be respected or whether they're true, you have to look at them in the context of what the First Amendment seeks to protect, and that's our right to express those beliefs.

I'm asking you to see this case for what it is. It's a nonserious, angry political argument, one that we are all allowed to make. And because of that, I want you to go back and look at the evidence. Look at what we actually have. Look at the actual recorded statements. Look at the fact that Mr. Nissen was making political arguments. And after going through all the evidence and listening to all the things that Mr. Nissen had to say, then and only then should you guys come to a vote. And when you come to a vote, I ask you to respect Mr. Nissen's right to speak, respect his political beliefs, as in all of our political beliefs and our rights to express them, and I ask you to find him not guilty of both charges. Mr. Mkhitarian just did in that argument. So these criticisms I have are not of him or his lawyering; they're of the position the defendant is in, because the facts are the facts and the law is the law.

I want to talk about Counts 1 and 2 separately here, because the defense talked about them separately. The defense said a true thing about this case. The defense said this case is about when someone crosses a line. That's accurate. The defense said this case is about whether Mr. Nissen's political rant should be criminalized. That's not true.

Alex, can we bring up 2-A?

Thank you for your patience, ladies and gentlemen. There are parts of this speech that are arguably political. Those are not why we're here. this phone call, you can consider. You can't consider, as the judge instructed, whether he testifies or not here. He has an absolute right not to. You're not allowed to hold that against him.
But in this phone call, you're allowed to consider what he means.

The part where he says, "I'm going to do whatever I'm going to do because he broke the law, he's a derelict of his duties," that's not the part of the phone call that brings us here. His opinion that Officer Burd is derelict in his duties, that's his right as an American to have that opinion, to call and express that opinion, to call and shout that opinion. He can shout that opinion into my face all he wants. That's not a crime. It's the "make him drop dead" part that's the crime. This is a case about whether a line has been crossed.

Mr. Mkhitarian describes Mr. Nissen as a law-abiding citizen. I think that's -- most importantly, that's irrelevant. The judge has instructed you that Mr. Nissen is only on trial for Count 1 and Count 2. He's not on trial for the proof of insurance. He's not on trial for the expired registration. He's not on trial to carrying a nondriver ID when really he had a driver ID. Nobody cares. That's just context for how Officer Burd treated him fairly and how Officer Burd was treated in return. He's not on trial for whether he's a law-abiding citizen or not.

Mr. Mkhitarian said that Officer Burd testified that Nissen was completely compliant. That's not true. He's allowed to argue what the facts are and to argue facts that are not true. allowed to do that. That's not wrong lawyering, but that's not what Officer Burd testified to. Officer Burd testified that when he first demanded proof of insurance and registration, he got some speech about how Mr. Nissen didn't have to give it. Officer Burd didn't escalate. Officer Burd de-escalated. Officer Burd had been trained to deal with these folks, not because they're so numerous, but because without training, an untrained officer might go a route that Officer Burd didn't, might escalate the situation, might think he was in danger and cause violence that didn't need to happen. Officer Burd was more circumspect than that. Officer Burd was more patient than that.

Mr. Mkhitarian argued that we are not aware of anybody being in imminent danger from Michael Nissen, and that as far as we know, everybody who received a threat was protected by time and space from Mr. Nissen. That is irrelevant. Instruction 9 says it doesn't even matter if Mr. Nissen intended to carry out the threat. All that matters is whether he meant it as a threat and whether he knew it would be taken seriously as a threat, which it was.

Mr. Mkhitarian argues that Mr. Nissen's beliefs are not fringe political beliefs. That's untrue, but it doesn't matter. If he said, "I support candidate X for president and that's why I'm going to shoot you in the head," it would not be the candidate support that brings us here. It's the threat to shoot people in the head. And I don't treat Officer Burd differently than I treat anybody, and the law doesn't treat Officer Burd differently. And in America, we are all equal under the law. a little offended, but it's within proper argument to complain that we're asking the threat laws to be enforced differently as against police, but I'm telling you we're not, and you can see the evidence that we're not. If that threat was given about anybody, Victoria Gurule would have taken it seriously, Barbara Beuzekom would have taken it seriously, any reasonable person would take these threats and the way they're delivered seriously.

And that's what the law requires you to find in this case. This is not about the political parts of the phone call. It's not about whether the beliefs are fringe or mainstream. We are not here to punish someone's political ideas being weird. That doesn't matter. All that matters is the threats.

Barbara Beuzekom. You are allowed to consider not only Barbara Beuzekom's testimony, but you're allowed to consider Officer Cordova's testimony that when Barbara Beuzekom came into his office with Michael Nissen waiting on hold, she looked different than she usually did. It was his view that she was upset; that she was usually bubbly; that she looked very serious, and she relayed to him that the caller had threatened to shoot her in the head, which is not exactly the same words as "I'm going to shoot you in your fucking face," but as the judge has instructed you, some differences in recollection is normal. There is nothing sinister in that, no matter what the defense wants you to believe.

In order for you to acquit the defendant on

Count 2, in order to follow the defendant's theory that the call didn't happen, you would have to assess -- and it's within your power to assess -- you would have to assess that Barbara Beuzekom lied to your face, that the calls that are clearly shown on the log on November 26, 2018, didn't happen; I guess that the log is fake; that Officer Cordova lied about it and that his half of the conversation, which is recorded, is actually the whole conversation.

Now, we know there is no mechanism for a person calling to complain about the police to be connected with a crimes-against-children detective. You heard from Victoria and you heard from Barbara how the call gets connected to her. Someone calls the New Mexico State Police line, the automated voice says, "Please listen. Our options have recently Gives the options. One of the options is administration. If you select administration, it goes to Barbara. That line is not recorded. Barbara said that since then they have been working on upgrading their system so that maybe that line could be recorded. Whether that's as a result of this case or not, it doesn't matter. Who cares?

You would have to believe that Barbara lied to your face and you didn't notice; that Officer

Cordova lied to your face and you didn't notice; that he, a sworn officer, sworn here to tell the truth, which is the important oath, made up her reaction and what she said to him about the phone call that she had just received.

Now, I would love to have a recording of that first half of that phone call on November 26. But you don't need it to lack a reasonable doubt as to what happened. You have Michael Nissen's phone calls. In some of them he didn't threaten to kill anyone, true. But you hear what it sounds like when he did threaten to kill someone, and you heard Barbara Beuzekom's testimony, and it's your power as the judges of the facts to determine credibility, just like the judge instructed. It's your power to believe Barbara Beuzekom. And that's what you should do.

And she's corroborated not only by Officer Cordova, by his phone call that was recorded, by him saying what it was like to interact with her at that time; but also corroborated by the way that you hear Michael Nissen with your own ears make these threats in Exhibit 2 and make the nonthreatening speech that he makes in Exhibits 1, 3, and 4. That's all you need.

1 You should have no reasonable doubts when 2 you're done reviewing all this evidence. And even 3 though you have listened respectfully to all of the defense's arguments, they should not convince you. 4 5 And instead, what you should do is find Michael 6 Nissen guilty as to Count 1 and guilty as to Count 2. 7 Thank you. 8 THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Mysliwiec. 9 (The jury was instructed.) 10 (The jury left the courtroom.) 11 (Verdict was returned.) 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24
